

Marin City Segregation Predicted Under Scheuer Plan

James H. Scheuer's controversial alternate plan for Marin City redevelopment would force racial and economic segregation within the community, County Planning Director Mary Summers declared today.

Her forecast appears in a report she will give the county planning commission Monday morning at a public hearing on the proposal.

The report is part of a presentation to be made by Mrs. Summers on all aspects of the scheme offered by Scheuer in the form of amendments to the county-approved master plan for rebuilding Marin City.

She has prepared two maps (reproduced on this page) by which she tries to show the possible results of attempted racial integration under the existing master plan and the alternate. Scheuer, a private developer, has been selected by the Marin County Redevelopment Agency to rebuild the former wartime housing area.

On Mrs. Summers' maps, the residential areas filled in solidly with ink indicate occupancy by non-Caucasian minority races, while the areas left unfilled are those which could be assumed to be occupied by Caucasians.

"It will be noted," said the planning director, "that by the use of the existing master plan the minority races would be 'integrated' almost equally throughout the single-family redevelopment portion of the project from the bottom of the hills to the ridge on the north side of the community center.

In the 'alternate' plan the minority races are mostly 'segregated' to the bottom of the hill just north of the community center and the Caucasians are located on the hills."

In the public housing and apartment portions of the two maps, Mrs. Summers said, the percentage of non-white minority races in relation to Caucasians is represented, respectively, by the proportionate width of inked-in space and white space.

She said each lot in the one-family residential areas has been inked or left untouched "as an indication of the percentage of minority races to Caucasians, respectively, which could be occupying each residence."

The planning director noted that since 1952 the percentage of non-Caucasian to white families living in Marin City has increased from 40 to 74 per cent.

She said E. Morton Schaffran, outgoing deputy director of the redevelopment agency, believes this will have jumped to 90 per cent by the time redevelopment occurs.

"Therefore," said Mrs. Summers, "this 90-10 relationship has been assumed (in her report) for the public housing section and for the 200 homes and apartments which the agency now believes will be needed by families presently living in Marin City and desiring relocation in either private homes or private apartments constructed by Mr. Scheuer."

Public housing occupancy is the same in both plans, she noted.

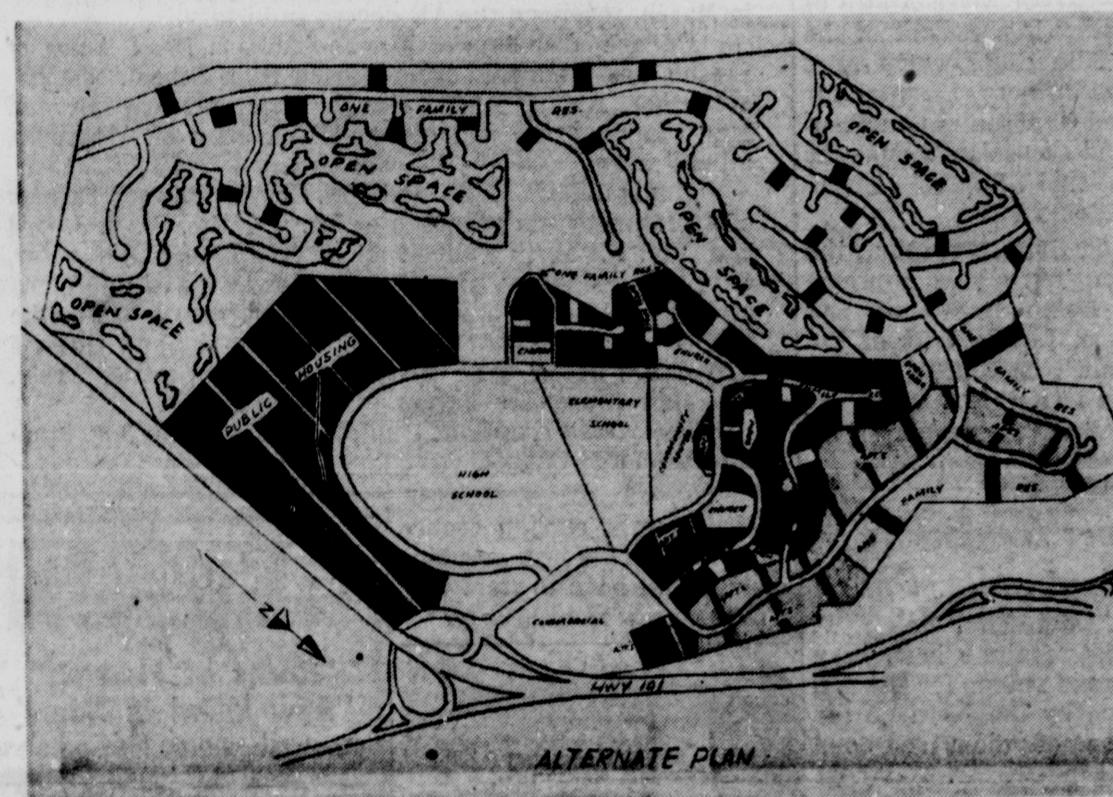

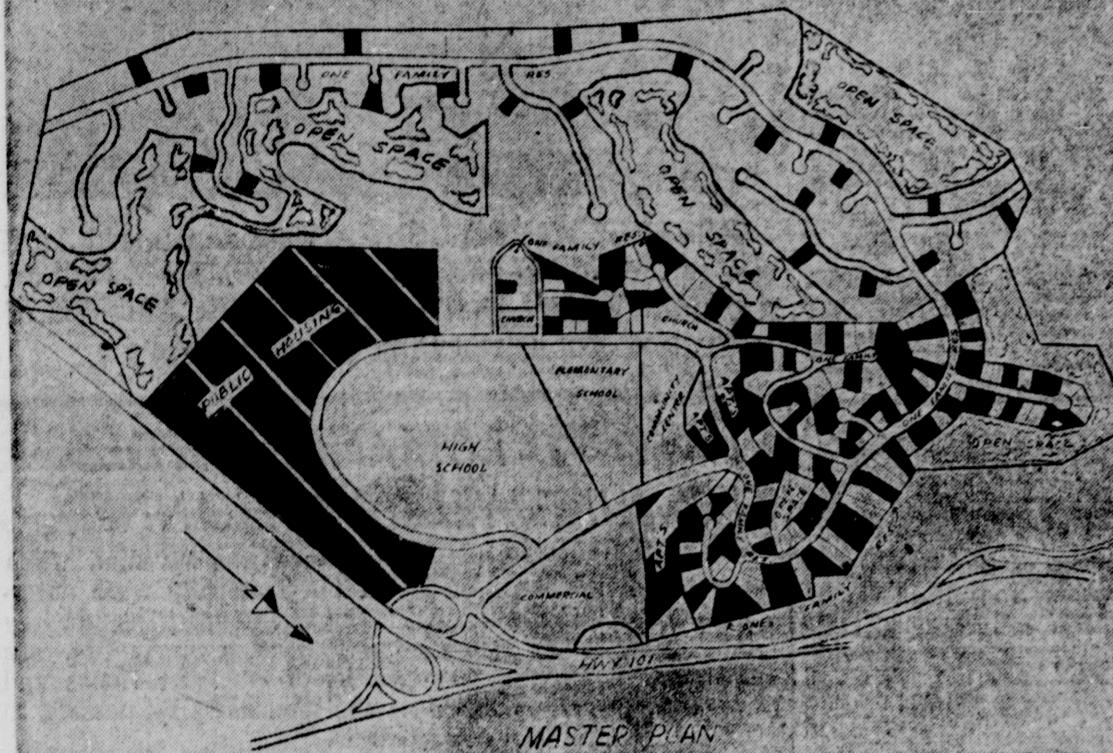

She said the existing master plan provides 70 homes and 60 apartments in the redevelopment area which could be offered to white families in order to obtain an integrated community. The alternate plan, she said, indicates 38 homes and 358 apartments which Mr. Scheuer proposes for (in his words) "higher income units with rents ranging up to approximately $185 per month, and the sale prices ranging $20,000 and up."

"By offering these high-priced facilities," said Mrs. Summers, "it is claimed by him that white families will be attracted to the area."

"And so," her report continues, "in both plans the

Bomb Threat At Apartment Proves Hoax

"Listen very carefully. There is a bomb due to go off at 10:30. There is no wish to harm you personally—just the house."

These words, uttered by a caller with a deep voice, were heard by Mrs. Tressie G. Taaffe last night when she answered her telephone in the Ross Apartments, 1118 Sir Francis Drake boulevard, Kentfield.

The caller hung up after making the threat about 7:30 p.m. Mrs. Taaffe notified the sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff George Barnes searched the building's boiler rooms, storage compartments and garages, but found no bomb.

He kept the apartment house under surveillance from 10:15 to 11 p.m., finally concluding the threat had been the work of a prankster.

Mrs. Taaffe told Barnes she has no enemies and has lived in the Ross Apartments 10 years without trouble. The manager, Robert White, said the building is not the subject of any dispute.

Immigration, Bad Check Suspect Held

Nick Vanderhurk, 35-year-old painter who's been living in Tiburon under the alias of Glenn Curtis Reeves, was arrested last night on charges of entering the country illegally and issuing bad checks in Los Angeles.

Immigration inspectors and Deputy Sheriff William Brust made the arrest at Vanderhurk's home at 1828A Centro West street.

En route to the county jail, Brust said, Vanderhurk admitted he entered the U.S. illegally about 11 months ago.

He also admitted he escaped from immigration authorities in 1951, later returning to his native Holland for a visit, the deputy reported.

Vanderhurk told the officers his latest entry from Holland was made via Cuba and Mexico. He said he crossed the border at El Paso, Tex.

Brust said the Los Angeles Police Department holds a warrant for Vanderhurk's arrest on felony bad check charges.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. Anderson came to Marin County with her husband just after their marriage in 1906. Her husband started the Sausalito-Mill Valley and San Francisco Express Co. around the turn of the century and Mrs. Anderson helped him.

Anderson operated the firm until 1945 when he and his son sold the company to the Merchants Express Corp. The younger Anderson joined the new firm and is now sales manager.

Mrs. Anderson's late father, Frank V. Pistolesi, was a Sausalito city councilman and well-known landowner in Marin County. He founded Camp Pistolesi, now a part of Tomales Bay State Park, and owned property now composing Inverness Park.

Mrs. Anderson was active in Holy Names Society of Star of the Sea Catholic Church in Sausalito.

In addition to her husband and son, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Emily Moffat of San Francisco, and six grandchildren.

A Requiem Mass will be offered Monday at 9:30 a.m. at Star of the Sea Church with the funeral cortège forming at Frank J. Keaton Mortuary, Sausalito, at 9:15 a.m. Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma. The Rosary will be recited tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Tracking Gear On Air Force Rocket Fails

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Defense Department said the tracking equipment in an Air Force Thor-Able rocket developed difficulties shortly after it was fired from Cape Canaveral today.

It said actual results of the rocket's flight thus will not be known until telemetric data is interpreted.

After the towering Thor-Able started its 5,000-mile journey down the Atlantic tracking range, Army rocketeers moved back into the space spotlight in preparation for their second attempt to send a 13-pound payload past the moon and into orbit around the sun.

And at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., the Air Force was getting ready for a third try at putting a 1,300-pound satellite into orbit around the earth with a two-stage rocket.

It was reported a month ago the Army would try to launch its four-stage Juno II space rocket today. But a lingering overcast at the cape made the chances slim for getting the 76-foot rocket off because a ceiling of at least 2,000 feet is needed.

Officials had hoped to recover the nose cone of the Thor-Able today. The cone may be used by the solid-fuel manufacturer ICBM.

In one of the most unusual launches ever seen at Cape Canaveral, the 52-ton two-stage rocket cut into an extremely low-banking area of clouds about 25 seconds after launching.

Dulles Progressing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department said today that two cancer experts are "gratified" by progress made by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles during the past 10 days. It said Drs. T. S. Rardin and Gordon Zubrod consulted Dulles' doctors at Walter Reed Hospital yesterday and reported that they were pleased by the secretary's progress.

Hockey Arena Collapse In Canada Kills Eight

LISTOWEL, Ontario (UPI) — The roof of a supposedly snow-proof hockey arena collapsed under the weight of accumulated snow today.

Eight persons, including seven children, were killed. Five were missing and feared trapped in the ruins. Ten youngsters were injured.

The disaster struck during a morning children's practice hockey session. Several adults were on the ice with the children, all aged 12 or under.

The 10 injured were taken to Listowel Hospital. There was no immediate report on the extent of their injuries.

The dead adult was Kenneth McLeod, 35, Listowel recreation director.

Six of the dead were identified, including McLeod.

The five missing are all boys.

Authorities said it was possible two of the missing were the two unidentified dead.

The disaster occurred when the cement block walls of the five-year-old building began to crumble under the weight of snow on the roof.

Residents of the town supplied station wagons for emergency ambulances.

Listowel, a town of 3,500, is 75 miles west of Toronto.

CHOLESTEROL CONTROL

Former Marinite's Husband Finds Body 'Thermostat'

The husband of an ex-Marinite has made an exciting discovery about cholesterol, the fatty substance which sets the stage for most heart attacks and strokes.

Dr. Marvin D. Siperstein, husband of the former Eleanor Righetti of Kent Woodlands, has discovered the existence of a "thermostat" which controls the body's internal production of cholesterol.

His discovery, made in his laboratory at the Dallas, Tex., Medical School, was published in a front-page article in the Dallas Morning News.

Dr. Siperstein has proved, the Dallas paper said, that when a person is put on a low cholesterol diet, his internal cholesterol factory increases its output. When his diet contains more of the substance, less is produced internally.

The "thermostat" tends to keep the cholesterol level constant, no matter how much cholesterol a person eats in eggs, liver and other high-cholesterol foods.

Dr. Siperstein and associates are searching for ways to turn down the thermostat and keep cholesterol from reaching dangerous levels.

Arteriosclerosis, a forerunner of many heart attacks and strokes, comes when cholesterol and other fats deposit inside blood vessels like rust in pipes.

Dr. Siperstein and his wife met at the University of California. They have two children.

Madden and Lewis say the county went so far as to assess back taxes on "escaped assessments" for possessory interest for the years 1956 and 1957. Since Hall did not assess possessory interest for those prior years, Madden and Lewis contend that the tax roll was not a valid one because their property was appraised by the county appraisal commission but was not accepted by the county assessor.

The county assessor then was George W. Hall, who was defeated in primaries last June by Assessor Bert W. Broemel.

BACK INTEREST

Madden and Lewis say the county went so far as to assess back taxes on "escaped assessments" for possessory interest for the years 1956 and 1957. Since Hall did not assess possessory interest for those prior years, Madden and Lewis contend that the tax roll was not a valid one because their property was appraised by the county appraisal commission but was not accepted by the county assessor.

The plaintiffs allege that their protest asking for a reduction was turned down by the county supervisors.

Governor Against Plan To Show Execution On TV

Big Annexation To San Rafael Asked

1,090 Acres North Of City Involved

1st SATELLITE FIRED FROM WEST COAST

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE (UPI)

The Air Force today fired the first satellite-carrying rocket in the "Project Discoverer" series, aimed at eventual development of a man-made artificial moon.

In Sacramento, Governor Brown said of the proposal: "I'm not in favor of any TV program or any such thing in connection with executions." Televising executions would be "carrying things too far," he declared.

McGee said he personally had no feelings about the matter but he thought the question should be decided by the Legislature.

There are two sides," he said, "and it can be argued both ways.

"Maybe the more the public sees about it the better. But on the other hand, sensationalizing executions could lead to a lowering of the dignity of justice."

It was the first satellite launching attempted on the West Coast.

The 78.2-foot-long, two-stage rocket dubbed "Discoverer 1," was aimed to streak over the Pacific missile range toward the South Pole in an attempt to put a 1,300-pound satellite into a "polar orbit."

Owners of 1,090 acres of open land to the north of San Rafael took first steps yesterday toward what they hope will be eventual annexation of that land to the City of San Rafael.

Officials representing the Freitas ranch and Eichler Homes, and developers Calvin Wheeler, John Kenny and Harry Heifetz, presented maps of their holdings to the Marin County Boundary Commission for approval. The boundary commission will act next Friday.

NEXT STEPS

If the commission approves, the land owners can start circulating petitions asking for annexation to the City of San Rafael. The San Rafael City Council, which will get the petitions for annexation, must hold a hearing within 20 to 50 days after the petitions are received.

If the annexation goes through, it would mean the northern boundaries of San Rafael would be extended from Puerto

Luncheon Guests Hear About Trips

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Springlike was the atmosphere both outdoors and in when Sunny Hills Junior Auxiliary staged its first fashion-luncheon of its series on Wednesday at the Meadow Club. The sun shone brightly on the brilliant green of the golf course and in the clubhouse gauzy, glittering butterflies and gay sandals formed the background for "Ballerama," in which ballet and fashion showing were cleverly combined.

The guests were in a gay mood and conversation went on at high tempo during the sherry hour and luncheon. Travel was one of the principal topics. Mrs. Jack Wilsey was telling Mrs. Edward McAleney of Los Altos of a flying trip planned to the Orient—Bangkok, Hong Kong, Singapore and Japan.

Mrs. A. H. Horrell had as her guests a group of San Franciscans, Mrs. George Stempel Sr., Mrs. T. A. Barry, Mrs. Murray White and Mrs. Ray Stempel. The latter told many interesting stories of her recent trip to Europe. Mrs. Horrell's daughter, Mrs. George Stempel Jr., was joined at her table by Mesdames George Mitchell, William McDevitt and Robert M. Lee. The junior Stempels and their four sons, Mark, Greg, Terry and Bobbie, and the Mitchells and their children, Jenny and Lane, are leaving the Thursday before Easter to spend the long weekend at Pinecrest. The McDevitts and their three sons, Michael, William and Peter, will spend the March 14 weekend at Nevada City and will go to Cisco to ski. The Lees and the S. K. Herzogs Jr. have taken a chalet at Sugar Bowl for six days. They'll go up on Wednesday. With the Lees will be their three children, Bobbie, Parker and Kathy, and Kramer Herzog will be with his parents.

Lunching with Mrs. Lorenz Schmidt were her mother-in-law, Mrs. Carl Schmidt, and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Walter Abraham, who is looking forward to a trip to Las Vegas, and also Mesdames Richard Kiechle and Dale Schnell.

Mrs. Birge Clark, who recently moved into her new home in Lucas Valley, entertained Mrs. William Munson who is going to Pebble Beach soon.

Over from San Francisco was lovely Mrs. Raymond Flood, former Marinite, who was greeted joyously. The Floods have a house facing the Marina Green and so they are just a stone's throw (well, not much more than that) of their cabin cruiser which is berthed at the St. Francis Yacht Club. The cruiser also provides additional sleeping accommodations when the Floods' son, Paul, who is in his third year at Stanford, brings home some of his Beta Theta Pi fraternity brothers. Paul also has his own outboard motor boat. Donna Flood and husband, Ray, formerly owned their own plane and both had pilot's licenses but Donna explained they sold the plane because they had become "weekend fliers" and you need more flying time "than that to keep in practice."

Applauding Mrs. Sydney B. Ford, who was modeling, were her mother-in-law, Mrs. Sydney W. Ford and the latter's daughter, Mrs. Chester B. Noyes. Also applauding the model was a group of Sausalito friends, Mesdames Jan Dyke, Charles Ksanda, James Higgins and Albert Domergue.

Coming over from El Cerrito to join Mrs. Lawrence Mayer were Mesdames Carl Ekholt, Carl Watson and Charles Weil, also Mrs. Arnold Mayer, who recently moved from San Francisco to Greenbrae, and Mrs. Harold Krystal, former El Cerrito resident, who has a new home in Lucas Valley.

RUSSIA, past and present, is being studied by a group of San Francisco Bay Area residents under the tutelage of Dr. Marshall Dill Jr., professor of history at Dominican College. The group meets on Tuesday mornings in private homes and next study session will be at the San Francisco home of Mrs. George Otto. She, Mrs. Earl Frank Smith and George Brady Jr. are sponsors of the group study. As might be expected Dr. Dill's aunt, Mrs. Powers Symington, for many years a leader in Marin's cultural and social groups, and who now lives in San Francisco, is one of the "pupils." Among those attending from Marin are Mesdames Charles Stone, Cedric Clute and Frank Baumgarten. Also in the group is Mrs. Rufus Thayer of San Francisco, who has a ranch home in Nicasio. Last year's study course was on the history of Russia from its beginning until the end of the empire. This year Dr. Dill is instructing on the modern era.

HONORING Mrs. H. S. Jonker of Grand Haven, Mich., her daughter, Mrs. Robert Evans, entertained at a luncheon yesterday at her home on the Belvedere Lagoon. Mrs. Jonker arrived for the visit on Valentine's Day and will return home by jet plane on March 23.

STANFORD ROMANCE IS TOLD AND JUNE WEDDING PLANNED

A Stanford University romance was revealed when parents of members of Sigma Chi fraternity were entertained at a buffet supper. The engagement of Deanna Kay Amos and James Moore (Jim) Pollock, a Sigma Chi, was announced. Deanna is president of Hurlbut House and she told the other residents the glad news by passing to them the traditional box of candy.

Deanna and Jim will both be graduated from Stanford in March, receiving the AB degree in history.

Deanna, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Dean Amos of Fresno was graduated from Fresno High School. She has a brother, Arthur Amos. Her grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Claude Amos and Mr. and Mrs. John M. Wortman, all of Fresno.

Jim is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Edward Pollock of Sacramento and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ord and Mrs. Elizabeth Pollock all of San Rafael. His sister, Gay, a Kappa Alpha Theta at the University of California at Berkeley, is on a year's tour of Europe. Jim is the nephew of Mrs. Ellis Scotford, Fred Reusche and Guthrie Ord of San Rafael, Mrs. George S. Smith of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Alexander Bryant of Phoenix, Ariz.

The young couple will be married on June 3 at Stanford Memorial Chapel.

Pacheco Science Fair Winners Announced

Pacheco School in Raphael Village was the scene of bustling scientific activity last night as pupils of all grade levels demonstrated more than 100 individual and group displays at the school's first science fair.

Spectators expressed astonishment at the versatility of the young scientists, who prepared the fair themselves under the direction of committee headed by pupils Brad Sterling, president; Sue Holloway, vice president, and Alice Koontz, secretary.

Science teacher Edward L. Hanchett today announced the winners of junior high school competition, as follows:

Individual Competition: 1, Brad Stribling, eighth grade, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stribling, Quarters 283 Buena Vista, Hamilton Air Force Base, stroboscope display; 2, Paul Ivanovsky, seventh grade, son of Boris Ivanovsky, 574 Midway boulevard, Novato; 3, Monte Swann, seventh grade, son of M. Sgt. and Mrs. Everett H. Swann, Quarters 5724, HAFB, "What is the speed of the brain?"

Honorable Mention (Individuals): Sara Hughes, seventh grade, "What are the best detergents?"; Nickie Hnatko, seventh grade, "What is the effect of light on plants grown hydroponically?"

Group Competition: 1, "What are chemicals made by electrolysis?" demonstration by seventh graders Steven Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Spencer Morse, 1037 Greenwood drive, Novato, and Jay Greenfield,

Cove Players Do Well In Difficult Drama

By DEE DEE ABRAMSON

The Cove Players last night opened one of the most difficult plays they have ever attempted, "The Chalk Garden" by Enid Bagnold.

The British suspense-filled drama got off to a slow start in the first act, perhaps due to opening night jitters, but once the verbal repartees of the two main characters, Miss Madrigal and Mrs. St-Maugham, played by Joan McKinney and Norma Christian filled the stage the second act was on its way, building to a climax that left this viewer limp in her seat.

Joan McKinney, playing the governess with a mysterious past, turned in a brilliant performance that kept her on stage during the entire play.

Mrs. McKinney turned on audience laughter, sympathy and pity, at times all at once. Her emotionally charged scene with the judge in the second act not only left her shaking but the viewers as well.

Norma Christian, as the dominating grandmother, Mrs. St-Maugham, showed the experience of her years of troupeling with a superb real performance as a woman living in the past. With perfect timing and projection, she delivered her lines with a professional verve throughout the play.

Eleanor McArevey, playing a 16-year-old psychotically disturbed child, did a creditable job for her 20-odd years. In her adolescent attire, Miss McArevey portrayed the flights of fancy, the skittishness and childish cruelty of the granddaughter, Laurel, very well through all three acts.

In his difficult role as the man servant, Maitland, Brian Rowlands did a good job as the whipping boy for the entire English household. The elderly judge, Arnie Schultz, performed realistically as a foil for the dramatic expositions of the governess.

Supporting players, Bethany Beckman, Betty Atterbury and Gene Hayes, were creditable in their parts. Miss Beckman, although hampered in her young appearance for the mother of a 16-year-old, conveyed sincerity and meaning in the role.

Special plaudits should go to Jeanne Kittredge who, although her lines and appearances were few, got an audience of 75.

The taxpayers' association president contends that the county illegally hiked assessments in 1955 and that taxpayers are entitled to refunds of $50 for each $1,000 of assessed valuation on which they paid taxes in the three years.

Arithmetic Study To Be Described

Trustees of the Larkspur School District and interested parents will hear a description of arithmetic studies at a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Neil Cummins School, Corte Madera.

The arithmetic program as it carries kindergarten youngsters from "readiness" through the eighth grade level of abstract thinking and arithmetic problems in adult life will be explained by five teachers, said Mrs. Catherine Burch, principal of Neil Cummins School.

The five will be Mrs. Toby Rein, Mrs. Helen Rigsbee, Mrs. Dona McKinney, Robert Johnson and Kreig Vezie.

To Vote On Adding Seats

A proposal to increase the Tiburon Fire District board of commissioners from three to five members was placed on the April 7 ballot by a unanimous vote of the commissioners last night.

The veteran hand of director Dan Totheroh was evident throughout the play in the smooth timing of sound effects, entrances and exits. The hours of work on the part of Herbert Heidinger and William Carter paid off in the realistic British country house stage setting and lighting.

Reservations for tonight's performance at the Tiburon Playhouse may be made by contacting Mrs. Donald Robinson, 741 Tiburon Boulevard. Tickets are also available for the March 6, 13 and 14 performances.

al, economic and other factors involved in why a particular neighborhood becomes integrated or segregated."

"The only point being made by these maps," she said, "is that whereas a claim is made by Mr. Scheuer that the alternate plan will probably assure an integrated neighborhood, it is just as possible that the master plan could produce an integrated neighborhood."

"In fact, by grouping the relocatees (assumed 90 per cent minority races) in one area and setting aside another area for high-priced facilities attractive to responsible white families, the alternate plan is forcing both economic and racial segregation within the neighborhood."

The planning director said the two plans are the same as far as development of the ridge area on the west side of Marin City is concerned.

She said the ridge is not a part of the redevelopment project. It is owned by the Marin County Housing Authority and will be sold to Scheuer if he wants it, otherwise to some other private developer.

"It is assumed for both plans," Mrs. Summers said, "that this (ridge) area would be developed for custom one-family homes and that a 10 per cent occupancy by minority races would prevail. This 10 per cent occupancy . . . has also been assumed for the 'high-priced' apartments to be constructed on the hills, under the alternate plan."

Monday's hearing before the planning commission will start at 9 a.m. in the commission chambers at 1711 Grand Avenue, San Rafael. Three hours have been allowed for the hearing.

Hub Legion Slates Party For Tonight

Dancing and free refreshments are planned for a party to be given by the San Anselmo American Legion Post at 9 o'clock tonight in the Legion Log Cabin.

Car Theft Reported

Jerome Ashley Starr of 139 Greenwood Avenue, San Rafael, reported to police last night that his car, a faded green 1951 Ford sedan, had been stolen from the city parking lot at Third and A streets. The vehicle's license number is DLE-256. Police issued an all-points bulletin on the missing car.

One Man Gave San Rafael A Better General Hospital

Next week John K. Taylor steps out of a job he has held for 13 years. He may not be too well known to the general public. His name and picture have appeared at not too frequent intervals in the Independent-Journal.

But John Taylor has done a good deal for San Rafael and the people of Marin County. Thirteen years ago he and his wife purchased San Rafael General Hospital at a time when it was far from the hospital it is today.

With a long range plan of development, he raised its standards and increased its facilities until in 1954 it won for the first time full accreditation from the national commission which handles such matters.

The hospital had fat days and lean days. Immediately before Marin General Hospital was built, the hospital's rooms, even the halls, were crowded with beds. After the new facility opened, the number of patients fell way below the level at which a hospital could afford to operate.

Taylor continued with the same perseverance and determination as he had exhibited when he had first taken hold of the project. With a continuing program of improvements both in facilities and services, he brought the hospital back to a firmer financial position.

Last year arrangements were made to turn the hospital over to a non-profit corporation. Taylor agreed to stay on as administrator until the new directors had gained in knowledge and experience. Next Saturday he steps out.

Taylor's plans and dreams will be continued and expanded, probably far beyond anything he had dared hope.

We're not trying to say that Taylor's tenure was without flaws. He has had ups and downs. We have not always seen eye to eye with him.

But the ultimate result is that San Rafael now has a larger and better hospital than it did 13 years ago when John K. Taylor took it over.

For this we thank him.

HELP CHANGE THIS TREND

An inner decay, fostered by self-interest and a passion for "soft living" is causing more and more people to disregard the responsibilities that go with their God-given rights.

Corruption, racketeering, immorality and crime of all types are undermining the morale of the country. A serious breakdown is taking place under our very noses.

Reverence for truth is giving way to compromise and expediency; even among those who should be guardians of the truth.

Patriotism is rapidly losing its once powerful appeal. The decline of loyalty is allowing the doors to be opened to disloyalty. More and more are forgetting that God is the "Author of our Liberty."

But something can be done to reverse this risky trend if enough people like you take it upon yourselves to renew and strengthen the moral foundations of American life.

"The Lord is good and giveth strength in the day of trouble; and knoweth them that hope in Him." (Nahum 1:7)

Stir up many, O Lord, to stand up courageously for truth and thus offset corruption.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Assembly Spectators Had Unusual Chance To See Politics In Action

By CHAPIN A. DAY

SACRAMENTO — It is not often that the visitors to the chambers of the legislative bodies in Sacramento are able to witness political party maneuvering out in the open.

Last Tuesday in the State Assembly, however, was an exception. Under debate was the proposal to eliminate cross filing of candidates in the primaries. It was introduced at the request of Gov. Edmund G. Brown and with 43 authors, so it was assured of passage from the beginning. But even some of the co-authors were not happy with it.

ASSEMBLYMAN Charles H. Wilson, Democrat of Los Angeles, one of the co-authors, submitted an amendment which would prohibit pre-primary endorsement of candidates by any organization which has the name of a political party in its name.

The amendment was obviously aimed at such organizations as the California Republican Assembly and the California Democratic Council.

Wilson argued that if such organizations are allowed to continue to use the name of a party and cross filing is abolished, the public will be moved farther away from the primaries by sheer weight of a pre-primary endorsement by a semi-official agency.

"IF WE ARE going to be honest about abolishing cross filing, we have to guarantee that the primaries go back as close to the people as possible," Wilson insisted.

Thomas J. MacBride, Sacramento Democrat, also jumped the party line to declare there should be "no misleading of the public by a candidate or a party organization." He said the public could easily be misled into the belief that the endorsements were official party actions.

Meanwhile, the party organization had time to go to work. And work Munnell did.

ABOUT HALF AN hour later, all 80 members were in their seats and the vote called again. First two absentees voted No. The third one voted Yes, giving the amendment an apparent majority of 41 votes. Fourth absentee voted No and the fifth one sat silently in his chair, refusing to vote. That made the vote 41 For and 38 against the amendment.

Then Democrat Lloyd Lowry of Rumsey got the signal from Munnell and switched his vote from Yes to No. He was followed by Rex Cunningham, Ventura Democrat, who also changed his vote to No. That made the final vote 40 to 39 against the resolution.

Joseph C. Shell, Republican floor leader, stood up and announced his intention of reconsidering the vote during the next legislative day. This maneuver would give him time to entice one of the votes back. But Munnell was on his feet moving that the reconsideration be immediately. He had a majority with him.

So they voted again — and once more, there were more votes for the amendment than there were against it — 39 to 38.

Once more Munnell scowled in the direction of one of his back-sliders. Assemblyman Sam Geddes of Napa arose and changed his vote from Yes to No. The vote was 39 to 38 against the amendment.

Once again "party responsibility" had won over the personal beliefs of the legislators.

Federal School Aid Is No Gift

EDITOR, Independent-Journal:

On or before April 15 the docile, law-abiding American public will pay to the federal government the amount shown on line 18. This will be followed by a 12-month period of mass unconsciousness.

Reports of new federal spending programs will stir no memories of past tax bills, for America sees no cause and effect relationship here. Federal money is free money, and we will all play the role of willing, eager recipients of the shower of manna from Washington.

Harold Bertram of Kentfield (letter to I-J, Feb. 23) plays his role well. Writing in favor of the Murray-Metcalf school aid bill, under which California would soon expect to receive an annual federal grant of $400,000,000, he promises cheerfully that this bill will "return" some of our tax payments to us. With great enthusiasm, and ready to lead the crowd in three cheers, Mr. Bertram asks "How does that sound to all you taxpayers?"

Well, without trying to be a spoilsport, Mr. Bertram, it doesn't sound so good.

1. If California is to receive $400,000,000 annually, the total cost of the program, each year, must be around 4.7 billion dollars. That will add about 6 or 7 per cent to the present federal budget. Won't this raise our income taxes 6 or 7 per cent, or am I missing something?

2. Since California has a substantially higher per capita income than the national average, California residents will pay substantially more for the program by way of income taxes than they receive back by way of grants. Education will then cost Californians more, not less. The purpose of the bill is to raise the standard of education in Mississippi, etc., where the residents have not been able or willing to afford first-class education.

3. How do we know that strings will not be eventually attached to the federal money, such as compulsory loyalty oaths or Dick & Jane textbooks? Will this be any different than the billboard string on the federal highway grants? (To keep the record straight, I am anti-billboard and rather cool toward loyalty oaths and Dick & Jane.)

Maybe, even probably, the nation as a whole suffers when one Mississippi school child is unable to obtain a good education. Possibly a Californian should take a long range view of his self-interest in considering the school aid bill.

But let's at least consider it on a rational basis and quit kidding ourselves that Congress wants to make us a gift. They can't. They're broke and in debt up to their ears.

The dastardly deer have destroyed our grass; The Hedera was eaten as well. The days of Jasminum quickly were past; Our Ceanothus must have been swell!

Pyracantha they relished on Thanksgiving Day; Agapanthus followed the rest; But they passed up the Nerium, needless to say.

New Tough Policy Makes Speeders Think Twice Before Pleading Guilty

SACRAMENTO (CNS) —

California motorists are due for a shake-up in the immediate future, according to Robert L. McCarthy, the new state director of motor vehicles.

The department plans to adopt a "tough" policy, McCarthy said, with regard to license suspensions.

He plans to suspend a driver's license on four prima facie convictions for speeding within a year, and declares that "there will be a lot more licenses suspended in the near future than have been in the past."

THE NEW DIRECTOR of motor vehicles is convinced that a "tough" policy will cut down on fast driving, and thereby make the highways safer places to travel, a goal sought for many years in the face of the increasing death rate in California.

The "tough" policy on speeders will, in all probability, result in more work for the courts.

In the past, people receiving tickets for speeding, even when they considered they were traveling at a safe speed in accordance with the prima facie provisions of California law, have mailed in fines and forgotten the entire matter.

THE ONLY PENALTY of permanent nature in effect at the present time, is the reduction in the number of years a driver's license can be issued.

The new policy, however, will twice before dismissing a speeding ticket with the posting of bail in a court that may be a hundred miles or more from his place of residence.

If the driver wants to keep on driving, it may be necessary for him to plead not guilty, appear in court, and plead his case.

The cost of traveling to the court, and the time involved, would be great, but it could be the difference between retaining the right to drive, and being afoot for a six or 12 month period.

There's a new book out called "The Rapid Fact Finder," and it's just the thing for contestants on a quiz (beg pardon, information) program. Can you tell offhand, for instance, how many waterfalls are higher than Niagara and which one is the world's highest? Well, there are 56! The highest is Angel Falls in Venezuela — a staggering 3,300 feet. Niagara is only 167 feet!

Question two: What cities are called (A) The City of Lilies; (B) Cream City; and (C) The City of Beefs? Answer: Florence, Milwaukee, Strasbourg.

Finally, what do these all have in common: Steinberger, Trittemheimer, Wiltinger, Scharzhofberg and Markobrunn? Answer: They all are names of German dry wines.

Class dismissed!

Politics, As Well As The Weather, Has Gotten Pretty Hot Lately

It's been pretty hot in San Rafael this week — not only the weather, but the political situation.

Lt. Charlie Chiesa's break with his chief caught most people by surprise. It promises to be one whale of a battle between popular Chief Frank Kelly and equally well-liked Chiesa. Maybe you haven't heard of Chiesa as much as you have Kelly, but old pros tell me that Chiesa has a strong following.

Even Chief Kelly himself admits that this is the toughest opposition he has faced in his 16 years as chief.

There's rumors afloat that somebody's been trying to get Chiesa to call off the contest. As we get it, a man on the phone called and suggested they could settle this thing without going into the election fight.

Chiesa has been with the San Rafael Police Department longer than Chief Kelly, and it is generally accepted that he rated the Number Two post. But some observers think that Chiesa feared someone else might be groomed for the Number Two job, from which he could succeed to chief.

The only man with a rank comparable to Chiesa's is hard-hitting, fast-talking Inspector Nick Glampoli.

THE DISTRICT attorney has been tied up in a series of big cases recently — Chessman book smuggling, Sterling Hayden, illegal surgery et al. But in the next several weeks, we wouldn't be surprised if something new turns up on the Charles Kiewert real estate case.

The D.A. has right-hand man Don Midyett on that case.

However, until the glasses reappeared, "legal eagle" Bill Wolfson, court clerk, kept a sharp eye on all papers signed by the judge.

West Needs To Seize The Initiative By Asking Reds Serious Questions

We do not as yet know what caused Khrushchev to interrupt his confidential talks with Macmillan in order to make a public speech. But if the report is correct that what he said about Germany and European security had been written out in advance, then his speech was a calculated diplomatic move — presumably to let the world know that he is not discussing with Macmillan any serious change in the Soviet position.

The way Macmillan has been treated in Moscow is not a good sign.

IT IS EXTRAORDINARY that Khrushchev did not wait until he had finished his talks with Macmillan. Why he did not wait, he alone knows. It may have been that for one reason or another he did not dare to let the impression grow that he was on the way to a negotiated compromise.

This might be due to opposition within the Kremlin, it might be due to opposition within the Communist orbit. Or, Khrushchev's calculated breach of the confidential talks with Macmillan may be due to an overweening confidence that he is dealing from a position of superior strength. We do not know. But Macmillan is bound to do his best to find out.

IN THE MEANTIME, it is only prudent to assume that Khrushchev believes that he is in the superior position, and then to ask ourselves if indeed he is, and if so, what we can do about it.

My own view is that there is in the Soviet attitude a mixture of anxiety and confidence. The ruling oligarchy are, I think, deeply anxious about the position in Eastern Germany and in Eastern Europe, once the West German army is completed and armed with nuclear weapons.

It is not because they think that West Germany can or will attack the Soviet Union. It is because they fear, not without reason, that an armed Western Germany will have a magnetic attraction for the underlying rebellion and resistance in Eastern Europe.

The Kremlin is, therefore, under great pressure to arrive at some kind of modus vivendi in the two Germanys within the two years that remain before the West Germans are fully armed.

ALONG WITH this anxiety there is at the same time great confidence, perhaps over-confidence, that in dealing with the German question the Soviet Union now holds the stronger cards.

The Soviets' hand is strong because they have the diplomatic initiative. They can create situations where — if it came to force — the onus of firing the first shot will be on the West and the actual occasion for firing will not be good enough to rally the West for a world war.

DUE DEDICATION—This building, the Bethel Baptist Church at 1929 Novato boulevard, Novato, will be dedicated tomorrow in ceremonies starting at 3 p.m. The building was completed last August.

Novato Baptist Church Dedication Tomorrow

Dedication services will be held tomorrow at 3 p.m. for the new building of Bethel Baptist Church of Novato. It is the first unit to be constructed on the church's two-acre site at 1929 Novato boulevard, according to Rev. Roy W. Herndon, pastor.

Dr. W. Earl Smith, executive secretary of the American Baptist Union of San Francisco Bay Cities, will deliver the dedicatory message. Dr. Fred Drexler will speak on "The History of Our Church."

A prayer of dedication will be led by Rev. Carl Burton Jones, pastor of the Mill Valley Baptist Church, with Rev. Gerald Traeger, pastor of the San Anselmo Baptist Church reading Scripture.

The new building, completed last August, was under architectural supervision of Wayne Osaki of San Francisco. Harold Spangler of Sonoma was superintendent of construction.

Formation of Bethel Baptist Church was begun in April, 1957, and the church was formally organized in April, 1958. First services were held in the pastor's residence, then in a rented hall in downtown Novato.

Purchase of the property and construction of the building was made possible by the American Baptist Convention through the Home Mission Societies. Financial support for the church came from the First Baptist Churches of Mill Valley, San Anselmo and San Francisco, the American Baptist Union of San Francisco Bay Cities and the Home Mission Societies.

Ex-China Captive To Conduct Day Of Recollection

A Jesuit priest and former prisoner of Red China will conduct the Social Service Auxiliary's Day of Recollection next Wednesday at St. Sebastian's Church in Greenbrae.

As retreat master, Rev. William D. Ryan, S.J., has scheduled the first conference at 10 a.m. The exercises will conclude at 2:45 p.m. Mass will be offered at 9 o'clock by Rev. James D. O'Shea, director of the auxiliary.

Father Ryan spent six years as a missionary in China, and was imprisoned by the Communists for a year. He is now chaplain and instructor in theology at the University of San Francisco.

Christian Science Lecture Slated

The healing and saving power of scientific prayer will be the topic of a lecture on Christian Science to be given in Sausalito next Saturday by Richard L. Glendon of Los Angeles.

The public lecture will be sponsored by the members of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Sausalito. Glendon will speak in the Marin Theater, Caledonia and Pine streets, at 3 p.m. His subject will be "Christian Science: The Healing Comforter."

Rev. and Mrs. Gerald Weaver, missionaries from the Belgian Congo, will speak during the Sunday school period and at the worship service tomorrow at the Mill Valley Baptist Church.

American League Lacked Color Dreaming Up Teams' Nicknames

My other reader came back to town the other day, and since he is a Yankee fan he objected to yesterday's column on the source of nicknames in the National League.

So, here we go back to the drawing board, or in other words, Menke's Encyclopedia of Sports, for the origin of nicknames of the American League clubs.

Being provincial at heart, we must confess that the American League lacks the color of our National League clubs in their nicknames, but here they are.

Back in the realm of antiquity, one Cornelius McGillicuddy named his team the Athletics, and the name has stuck ever since. Sure, it was inevitable that the venerable gentleman's name was shortened to Connie Mack, but the Athletics have never been known as the "Ath's." Once in a while they were known as the Mackmen, yes, but never anything else, even after their move to Kansas City.

THE BOSTON Red Sox were

Tamites Win 6th Straight

Tamalpais Indians, most improved team in the North Bay League, notched their sixth straight triumph last night with a thrilling 44-43 victory over the Santa Rosa Panthers at Tam's gym.

In wrapping up their NBL season with a 9-5 won-lost record, the Indians had to freeze the ball for the final 58 seconds to preserve the one-point lead they got when Ray Edwards connected on a tip-in. Edwards is an old hand at beating Santa Rosa. In their first round game his two free throws in the final seconds gave Tam an identical 44-43 win over the Panthers.

Charley Fisher led Tam scorers with 12, while Edwards had 11. A crucial free-throw by Fisher with 90 seconds to go pulled Tam to within one point of the strong-finishing Panthers and made it possible for Edwards' tip-in to pull out the victory.

Equally unimaginative is the name of the Washington Senators, or Nationals, as they are sometimes called, because of their location in the National Capital.

THE NEW YORK Yankees were first called the Highlanders because of the location of their park in Washington Heights in New York. Later a sports writer persisted in calling them the Yankees, and the name stuck. Give us a few more years and they will, or could, be known as the Caseys or the Stengels instead of the Yanks.

Perhaps the only claim to distinction for the Cleveland Indians is the fact that they were once in the National League, when they were known as the Spiders. Also known as the Blues and the Naps (in honor of the all-time great Napoleon LaJoie) the present Indians were called the Forest Citys and the Molly Maguires. It took the fans themselves to name Cleveland as the Indians.

Wouldn't it be something if the Chicago Rainmakers and the Cleveland Molly Maguires should play in the World Series in 1959?

Cepeda Wows 'Em In First Bat Drills

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — The return to camp of heavy-hitting Orlando Cepeda has set San Francisco Giant partisans to wondering what's going to happen to Bill White this year.

Cepeda suited up for the first time yesterday, and the 1958 rookie of the year immediately put on a smoking batting demonstration that indicated that the flashy Puerto Rican did not plan to fall before the sophomore jinx that has often plagued other top rookies.

The 21-year-old Orlando admitted he was about five pounds overweight, but added "I'll lose it quick."

Cepeda's dazzling return focused attention on White, who is admittedly on the trade block.

PINCH-HITTER

White had a good rookie year as Giants' first sacker in 1956 and then was drafted. He returned late last year to discover that Cepeda had his job. White was used in pinch-hitting roles.

The 25-year-old White seemed gloomy about his prospects. "I've never sat on the bench," he said. "You can't make big money unless you're a major league regular. Now I'm 25 and pegged as a second stringer."

The Giants have indicated they would trade White for needed pitching or second base help, but Giants' Vice President Chub Feeney said no club has made a "serious offer" for White.

VERSATILE STAR

"We'll consider trading White," he admits, but he warned "it would be an insult to offer us less than first line talent. Bill is undisputedly a splendid all-around player."

"Bill can help us as a pinch-hitter," he concluded. "We don't have to give him away."

In other developments, the Giants planned a short intra-squad game today as a sort of hello for Manager Bill Rigney, who has joined the club after being hospitalized by an auto crash.

A full intra-squad contest is slated tomorrow.

Jackie Brandt, the Giants' first-string left fielder, has been told he must submit to a nasal operation next Thursday.

The surgery will remove an obstruction caused by an old football injury. Brandt is expected to be back in top shape within a week.

Novato Bows In Finale

Coach Fielding Reese's Novato Hornets lost their final North Bay League Section II basketball game last night, 50-46, to the Sonoma Dragons at Sonoma.

Novato, which was paced by Jack Sparrow's 16 points and Ron Marder's 12, led through the first half, but relinquished the lead in the third period and couldn't quite come back.

Novato scoring: (fg-ft-pts) Pete Ferrarese, 1-2-4; Marder, 3-6-12; Sparrow, 7-2-16; George Goss, 0-2-2; Dick Olrich, 6-0-12.

STATE CUTS DAILY TROUT LIMIT TO 10

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Fish and Game Commission has retreated slightly from a previous stand and voted 2-1 to cut the state trout limit to 10 fish, except in 10 northern California counties. The 10-fish winter trout limit was cut to five fish from Nov. 1 to the day before the regular season begins.

However, at a meeting here yesterday, the commissioners decided not to proceed with the announced intention of cutting the limit up and down the state.

They backed off in the trout-filled streams of northern California's Siskiyou, Modoc, Trinity, Shasta, Lassen, Tehama, Plumas, Sierra, Butte and Nevada counties to leave the limit at 15 fish per day.

But Sen. Stanley Arnold (D-Susanville) told commissioners he believed there were places where a 10-trout limit was warranted. He apparently referred to water-hungry southern California which got more than 50 percent of the catchable trout planted by the state Fish and Game Department last year.

The commission action was in line with a suggestion by the $100,000 Booz, Allen and Hamilton study on commission and departmental operations.

One of the more than 150 recommendations by that report, ordered by the Legislature, was to immediately cut the trout limit to 10 fish and eventually slash it to five.

The BAH report said this would more adequately spread the fish resource among all the people and take the advantage away from the expert fisherman.

The new regulations will go into effect April 4.

SCORTICHINI TROUNCED

'Ace' Earns Bout With Spider Webb May 15

NEW YORK (UPI) — Unbeaten Gene (Ace) Armstrong was so impressive while registering his 17th straight victory last night on a near-shutout decision that he will be matched with Spider Webb, third-ranking middleweight contender, at Madison Square Garden, May 15.

Slender, lightning-fast Armstrong of Elizabeth, N.J., beat chunky Italo Scorticini, champion of Italy, by an official 9-1, 9-1 score in their 10-round TV fight at the garden.

All three ring officials gave only the second round to the wild-swinging, black-hair'd Italian, who weighed 161 pounds to Armstrong's 157½. Armstrong was favored at 41-17 fights.

The Ace, rated 10th by the Ring Magazine and fifth by the National Boxing Assn., said he would have no other matches before the Webb fight.

"I don't like to fight too often," he explained, "because it interferes with my job as a bottle-stacker in a gin distillery at Linden (N.J.). I'll go back to work there Monday. I took two weeks off for last night's fight."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Nikita To Berlin
BERLIN (UPI) — Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev will come to East Germany to attend the Leipzig Trade Fair, which opens tomorrow. Presumably he will use the occasion to talk over the Berlin crisis with East German officials.

The announcement came amid speculation among Western diplomats in Berlin that the Soviet Union may be getting ready to sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Sears Strike Set

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The Teamsters Union directors have given James Hoffa authority to call a strike against Sears, Roebuck and Co.

The union is trying to organize Sears mail order, warehouse and truck driver employees across the country.

Union Sues Paper

SAN JOSE (UPI) — The San Jose chapter of the American Newspaper Guild is seeking $40,000 damages from the strike-aided Mercury-News because of an incident involving the union's fill-in newspaper.

The civil suit charges restraint of trade. It alleges that copies of the union paper, The Reporter, were taken from newsstands and thrown on the sidewalk.

Beck Plans Appeal

TACOMA, Wash. (UPI) — Attorneys for Dave Beck planned an early appeal today on the income tax conviction of the former Teamsters Union president.

Beck was sentenced yesterday to five years in prison and fined $60,000 for evading $240,000 in income tax payments for the years 1950 through 1953. Beck was free on a bail of $70,961.52.

Air Strike Averted

NEW YORK (UPI) — A federal mediator announced today that a threatened strike Monday by 8,000 employees of Pan American World Airways has been averted.

Agreement "in principle" was reached after an all-night negotiating session, according to Francis A. O'Neill Jr., a member of the National Media-Motion Board.

New Africa Violence

SALISBURY, South Rhodesia (UPI) — Police and white volunteers armed with rifles patrolled the streets of Blantyre in Nyasaland today because of a new outbreak of violence.

The city, the commercial center of the territory, was quiet, but workmen ringed the main jail and security posts with barbed wire in anticipation of possible new riots by the native population. The patrols were ordered out yesterday afternoon when jeering Africans stoned riot police in Market Square.

Holdup On Bus

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — Two bandits pulled an Eastern version of the old Wild West stagecoach holdup yesterday. They collected $655 at gunpoint from 62 people on a commuter bus from New York. The pair posed as passengers.

Officer Links Russ Ship, Cable Break

ARGENTIA. Newfoundland — The U.S. naval lieutenant who searched the Novorossiisk says the Soviet trawler "probably quite likely" had something to do with breaking trans-Atlantic cables.

But, he emphasizes, "I don't know whether accidentally or intentionally."

Lt. Donald Sheely of Falls Church, Va., told a news conference here last night that the Soviets offered no resistance to his boarding party on Thursday and sailed away on being told to leave the Grand

Mikoyan Meets Macmillan In Russ Surprise

LENINGRAD — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan arrived in Leningrad today to find surprise top-level Soviet delegation waiting to greet him. It was headed by First Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan and Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

Mikoyan and Gromyko flew to Leningrad from Moscow with British Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly. Macmillan flew in from Kiev.

A British spokesman said Macmillan had no advance notice that Mikoyan was joining him for his two-day visit to Leningrad.

A British official said that Mikoyan had mentioned earlier in the week that he might come to Leningrad but, as in the case of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's trip to Kiev, the British were later told those plans had been dropped.

U.S. State Department press officer Lincoln White said in Washington "I don't think any apology is involved in any way, shape or form. This was not a hostile action, but an investigation clearly provided for under terms of a treaty."

TREATY UNMENTIONED

The Soviet accounts of the boarding in the Grand Banks fishing grounds off Newfoundland made no mention of the 1884 treaty which permits inspection of the documents of ships suspected of damaging oceanic cables, intentionally or accidentally.

Moscow Radio, in a newscast to the Soviet people, tended to treat the board as a routine story.

Gas Sale Equals Trip To Moon Each 5 Minutes

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Californians purchased enough gasoline in 1958 to travel the equivalent of a round trip to the moon about every five minutes.

During the year, a record total of 5,236,662,000 gallons of high-test motor vehicle fuel was distributed. This volume amounted to almost 10,000 gallons a minute.

If an average mileage of 15 miles per gallon resulted, the total distance traveled on the fuel distributed would have amounted to 54,984,951,000, or about 110,900 round trips to the moon.

Distributions for 1958, up nearly 4 per cent from the previous year, brought gross revenues to the state of $314,199,683 from the six-cent-a-gallon tax. Of this total, $22,358,090 was refunded for non-highway use.

Brown Names New CHP Commissioner

SACRAMENTO — A 46-year-old prosecutor is California's new Highway Patrol commissioner.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown appointed Dist. Atty. Bradford Crittenden of San Joaquin County yesterday to take over the patrol post from Commissioner B. R. Caldwell, who resigned effective March 16.

The nomination of Crittenden, a Republican, to the $16,500-a-year job requires Senate confirmation.

Brown said Crittenden will take a major part in the state's new "get tough" highway safety program.

"I'm proud to have a man of Brad Crittenden's demonstrated abilities as a law enforcement officer agree to take this most responsible position," Brown said.

Crittenden, whose home is in Stockton, has been district attorney for four years. He is a graduate of College of Pacific and Hastings Law School.

Caldwell is a former deputy chief of the Los Angeles police. He is stepping down after 34 years as a law enforcement officer. He announced his resignation yesterday after Brown told his news conference he would not reappoint him.

The governor thanked Caldwell for "splendid service to the state." The outgoing CHP chief promised complete cooperation to Crittenden to ease the changeover.

Rough seas and drifting ice held up repair of the cables.

Two Western Union cableships are standing by but the weather forecast was gloomy for beginning work for some hours.

The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda called the boarding illegal and the official Soviet news agency Tass described it as the "unlawful action of the American naval fleet in the open sea."

FACE REBUFF

Neither gave any immediate indication whether the Soviets intend to make a formal diplomatic protest. If they do, they face a rebuff.

U.S. State Department press officer Lincoln White said in Washington "I don't think any apology is involved in any way, shape or form. This was not a hostile action, but an investigation clearly provided for under terms of a treaty."

TREATY UNMENTIONED

The Soviet accounts of the boarding in the Grand Banks fishing grounds off Newfoundland made no mention of the 1884 treaty which permits inspection of the documents of ships suspected of damaging oceanic cables, intentionally or accidentally.

Labor Council Again Offers Scholarship

The Marin County Labor Council will award a $500 scholarship to an outstanding graduating senior of a high school in the county for the eighth consecutive year. Albert DeMello, president elect, announced today.

The scholarship may be used to assist the student in any field of knowledge, and is not limited to those interested in labor, DeMello emphasized. Any Marin County senior, regardless of race, creed or color, is eligible to compete.

Application forms will be distributed soon to all high schools in the county, DeMello said.

The 1958 award winner, Suzanne Hanchett of Mill Valley, a Tamalpais High School graduate, is now enrolled at Reed College in Portland, Ore.

DEATH THREAT TOLD

Mrs. Duncan Calls Witness A Liar

VENTURA — "You're a liar!" Elizabeth Duncan screamed at an old friend as she left the witness stand yesterday.

The witness was Mrs. Emma Short, 84, an almost constant companion of Mrs. Duncan for two years.

The defendant's outburst came after Mrs. Short testified that Mrs. Duncan fought hard against losing her son to an attractive nurse.

Restrained by her attorney after jumping to her feet when Mrs. Short walked past her during a recess, Mrs. Duncan protested:

"This woman has my clothes on right now and she's a liar. I feel like tearing them right off of her."

6 Boys Tossed Out As Car Turns Over

Six teen-age San Rafael boys tumbled from their wrecked car after it careened off a curve of San Pedro road at 8:30 p.m. yesterday, overturned, and skidded 60 feet on its left side, according to the California Highway Patrol.

One 14-year-old boy, Michael Wade of 208 Woodland road, San Rafael, suffered a broken left collarbone. He received emergency treatment at San Rafael General Hospital.

Wade and the driver of the car, Thomas Joseph Sanfilipo, 15, of 27 Hillview avenue, San Rafael, went to the San Rafael police station. Sanfilipo, a student at San Rafael High School, said he approached the curve at 50 miles an hour and lost control.

The 15-year-old boy said he had taken the family car from his father's place of business in San Francisco.

CHP Officer Donald Dowling cited him for speeding and for driving without a license.

The other four occupants of the car, all 15-year-olds from San Rafael, were identified as Jim Wade of Lincoln avenue; Gary Sea of Fairhills; Jim Angel and Phil Imsdahl of San Pedro road.

Another accident last night involving an overturned Jeep wagon landed its driver, Mrs. Shirley Joyce Crick, 34, of Guerneville, in the county jail on a charge of drunken driving at 10:20 p.m. yesterday. CHP Officer V. C. Weiner found her standing beside her overturned vehicle at the south end of the old Highway 101 Greenbrae bridge.

Winners from each club then enter a zone contest, followed by regional, district and area contests, culminating in a contest including finalists from California and Nevada. The district winner receives a $1,500 scholarship.

Participating Marin Lions Clubs and their schools are:

Mill Valley, Tamalpais; Corte Madera, Redwood; Larkspur, Redwood; San Anselmo, Drake and Marin Catholic; Fairfax, Drake; San Rafael, San Rafael and Marin Catholic; Novato, Novato; West Marin, Tomales, and Kentfield, Marin Catholic.

This Typewriter Is So Out-Dated That I Can't Do Anything With It

THE TROUBLE TODAY is that unless you have the right kind of equipment you can't do a good job or even live comfortably.

Take this typewriter. It's an old Royal. Not as old as some—it has elite type, magic margin, touch control, tab set and clearance keys and a 12-inch carriage in case you want to write up to the edges of the paper. It also has a plus sign and one for degrees. It's a good machine for filling in income tax forms and setting down weather reports and certain mathematical problems.

But it's no good at all for this work I do. The type is too small. With bifocal glasses you have to rest your chin on the hood to make out what you've written.

It repeats the same words over and over and spells atrociously. It's too heavy to carry round with you, so if you get a brilliant idea you have to run downstairs where the typewriter is and by that time you've forgotten what you had in mind.

I've been looking at these new, lightweight, portable models with big, clear executive type. The best ones I'm told are foreign made and they're put together like a fine Swiss watch. I know I'll never turn out a decent piece of writing until I buy one.

NOW TAKE CAMERAS. All I have is a 35mm. with an f 2.8 coated lens, focal plane shutter, coupled rangefinder and speeds up to 1/1000 of a second. But I can't take good pictures because the viewfinder is too small and it's separate from the rangefinder. It doesn't have a single-action lever to wind the film and simultaneously cock the shutter. I have to turn a knob and if it isn't turned far enough the frames overlap.

The latest models have an f 1.9 six element lens, trimming type combined range and viewfinder, built-in exposure meter, rewind crank and automatic exposure counter with an automatic zero setting.

I'll bet Ken Molino, Bob Hax and Dick Steinheimer don't use any antiquated piece of equipment like mine. No wonder they take such good pictures.

Let's look at golf clubs. Two of mine have wooden shafts and the rest are assorted steel. None of them match. The bag looks like I left it on the fairway near a gopher hole while I was trying for a count of eight on a par three and how d'ya suppose it got chewed up that way?

ANYONE KNOWS that you can't score below a 90 unless your clubs are balanced and matched, and you have at least 10 of them, with jackets for the woods, a special putter, and a bag which will hold twice as many as well as your lunch and an automatic score counter. Handicapped the way I am I might as well give up. Then there's the television. I guess Mr. Schaub at Westland has worked it over so much these last eight years he must know every wire and condenser by heart. He says it's still good, but it's only a 17-inch set and any time they flash a letter or telegram on the screen somebody in the room has to run up close and read it and come back and tell the rest of us what it says so we won't lose out on the plot of the story.

OUR HI-FI SET, too. We have the old fashioned three speed type with just one speaker and a 25 watt amplifier. I'll bet it doesn't have a range of more than 40-15,000 cps. And without stereophonic sound we miss the whole idea of listening.

I could go on this way and tell you about the car, the washing machine, the stove and my wife's iron, but it's just too discouraging. Honestly, I don't know how we get by with all this obsolete equipment. It makes me sick when I read the ads and see how far removed we are from being modern and up to date.

For that matter, it makes me sick when I try to figure how to go out and buy the things that would enable us to live the way we should.

He Was The Youngest Lawyer

Superior Judge N. Charles Brusatori Passed State Bar Exam Before He Was 21

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

Superior Court Judge N. Charles Brusatori can boast, although he never does, of being one of the youngest men to pass the California State Bar examination. If you ask about it he will probably turn the subject to baseball, which he considers the greatest sport, and proudly inform you that he belonged to the "Marsh Rats." The "rats," officially known as the San Rafael Federals, were given the nickname because they played in the marsh, now Albert Field.

It may seem paradoxical to say that Judge Brusatori takes his position very seriously but enjoys it, but this is so. He says that a court case is like "human drama unfolding." Long drawn out civil proceedings may seem tiresome to the average person but to the jurist they present challenges. And the judge believes there is no such thing as a "little case."

"It is important to someone."

JUDGE BRUSATORI was born, as his parents were, in Italy. His birthplace was Lonate Pozzolo on the Po River and soon after Charles, the first child, arrived on Oct. 19, 1902, the father, Felice Brusatori, left for the United States to work and establish a home for his family. The job was with the Northwestern Pacific Railroad in Tiburon and when Charlie (we, who have known the judge for many years, still call him that) was 2½ years old, he and his mother, came to Tiburon. They lived there about six months and then the family moved to San Rafael. There the other children were born, Robert, secretary-treasurer of the Marin Municipal Water District, Mary (Mrs. John E. Skillicorn of San Francisco), Rose (Mrs. Milford O. Crader) of Trinity County, and Joseph, a member of the San Rafael Police Force.

Charlie attended Short School, San Rafael Grammar and San Rafael High. There he says proudly, "we had a pretty good team." He played left field. He recalls some of his teammates, the pitcher, Albert Jue, now a dentist in San Francisco, Kenneth Larkin, John Keating, Harold Haley (the judge), who played second base, Warren Williams (San Rafael's postmaster), shortstop; Miller McNear, Gene Stitt, Russell Borkheim, Rafael Clark and Jack Hunt.

WHILE CHARLIE was at San Rafael High School, he was also going to law school at nights in San Francisco. With the Brusatori family growing and the father's wages just about meeting living expenses, it was necessary that the eldest son get a job. Charlie first went to work for a wholesale millinery company in San Francisco. Then he went over to the law firm of McCutcheon, Olney and Willard. The agreement was that he should have an opportunity to study law in between chores.

He worked first as an office boy and later as librarian and his salary grew to the munificent sum of $90 a month. He also took a business course at night at Gallagher Marsh college.

When a better paying job, that of typist and bill clerk, was offered by the Northwestern Pacific, Charlie took it and continued his law studies at night school. Then came a blow.

"I was bumped off of the job because of seniority," Charles says.

In the interlude before he worked for an insurance firm, Charlie went to San Rafael High School. Coach Bill Wilson was jubilant. The baseball team needed Charlie, right then because it was going to meet its old enemy, Petaluma. The late Oliver Hartzell, principal, ruled Charlie out because he was not taking the required subjects.

BUT THE DAY of the Big Game was on the field.

"I got a lucky hit, a three bagger, scored and slid into third with a cloud of dust." And then "I saw Hartzell coming at me on the double. I was too scared to run. I just stood there. He was waving his arms as he shouted: 'Atta boy, keep it up. We'll beat those boys yet!'"

Charlie continued his law studies while he was working and took odd jobs to make money for his further education. One summer he worked in the NWP railroad yards at Sausalito wiping engines.

On January of 1920 the young man entered San Francisco Law School and received the LLB degree in May 1923. Because he wasn't 21 "They wouldn't let me take the bar examination," Charlie explains. "I talked to Tom Boyd (the late attorney, father of Thomas Boyd, also an attorney) and he gave me a letter to Judge Frank Angelotti, one of the three members of the state board of bar examiners." (Judge Angelotti, who had been Marin County Superior Court judge was later a justice of the State Supreme Court).

Charlie continued: "I went to Judge Angelotti's office in the Mills Building (San Francisco) and learned that the board of examiners was in session. It was then I pleaded my first case, my own. When I appeared before the examiners, I said:

"SO FAR AS I know the law says one has to be a citizen of the United States and 21 years of age to be admitted to practice of the law. I respectfully submit the law doesn't say I have to be 21 to take the examination. I should be permitted to take the examination and if I am lucky enough to pass it, you can hold up my license until my 21st birthday."

Charlie then made his exit and cooled his heels in the ante room for about 20 minutes. Then he heard the verdict. He had won his "case." He was allowed to take the bar examination and he passed it. That was Aug. 21, 1923. It was an impatient young man who waited for his 21st birthday. The Marin County judge smiled as he recalled:

"Before the doors open on Oct. 19 I was there to appear before the clerk of the District Court of Appeals to be sworn in."

CHARLIE'S ALWAYS practiced law in San Rafael. For the first few years he was in the office of the late Roy Lewis. Then he decided he'd open his own office. It was a happy occurrence when Charlie went up to the office of the widely known attorney, George H. Harlan in the Cheda Building. He went there to see if he could buy a desk. Harlan said he had a desk he didn't need and he suggested to the young attorney that he take the adjoining office and they could share the reception room. Charlie was delighted and thus began a pleasant association which continued until Harlan retired in 1945. They moved from the Cheda Building to the Albert Building.

THE MARIN COUNTY judge entered public life in 1931 when he was elected to the San Rafael Board of Education. He served from then until 1944 when he was appointed justice of the peace, filling the vacancy left by the death of Judge Herbert De La Montanya. He resigned from the board of education because "one person should not hold two elective offices." He served as justice of the peace until January of 1953. With the reorganization of the courts of the county that office was abolished and Charlie, who had been elected judge of the Marin Municipal Court, served until he was elected superior judge in 1956. He took office in January of 1957.

After Charlie had outlined his political career I asked him about the mysterious "N" at the front of his name.

"I was baptized Natale." Just about everyone mispronounced or misspelled it but I didn't mind too much until I was in the sixth grade. I had entered in one of those contests they had in the Sunday supplements of the city papers. The reply was addressed to Miss Natalie Brusatori. That was the last straw. I just had to have a name like Bob or Joe. But I couldn't take Bob because my brother had it and I couldn't take my confirmation name of Joseph because my other brother had it. I picked the name of Charles out of the thin air. No other kid in the class had it.

"I informed my teacher that from then on I should like to be Charles on her record. She was nice about it but when another boy in the class decided he didn't like his name and wanted to change it she put her foot down. Said one kid in the class changing his name was enough.

"By usage and custom the name has become legal. I keep the 'N.' because that explains the name on my birth certificate and you have to produce that to get a passport."

FOR MANY YEARS the Marin County judge has had a wonderful partnership but that does not conflict in any way with his official duties. The partner is his charming wife Mary. They first met on July 4, 1925 when vacationing in the Yosemite.

"It took me four years to win her," the judge says. It was on June 27, 1929 that Mary McKeever of San Francisco became Mrs. Brusatori. They have two daughters, Alice (Mrs. Ole Christensen) and Mary Anne (Mrs. Frank Klineman) both of San Rafael. The Christensens have three daughters, Karen, Kaela and Mary Kay, and ditto for the Klinemans whose daughters are Kathy, Sue and Carla.

"Some of the fellows say I'm foolish to be here," he made a sweeping motion to include the courthouse, "say I would make more money in private practice, but I like it here."

We went on to discuss court decisions and Charlie said: "You know the one I am proudest of, Florence? You probably remember the case. A chap by the name of Lonnie Khans, a picturesque fellow who always wore a turban, strangled a woman in Marin City.

IT WAS HIS third murder. He'd been convicted in Alameda County of killing his wife and mother-in-law. Khans pleaded guilty here to first degree murder. I took evidence in the case although that wasn't altogether necessary. The man was sentenced to life imprisonment. I urged the Adult Authority to see to it this time that 'life imprisonment' meant a lifetime in prison. Khans appealed saying he'd been denied a fair trial."

The judge got up from his desk, went over to the book case and took out a book on State Appellate Court rulings. He opened it to the page on the Lonnie Khans case and I read: "After a careful scrutiny of the record we conclude that there is no merit to the appellant's numerous allegations of error. We think that the trial court is to be commended for its fairness in dealing with so difficult a case." The date of the Appellate Court decision was May 19, 1958.

AND SO AGAIN, there was proof, if proof were needed, that San Rafael's own Charlie Brusatori is a good and fair judge as well as a "wonderful guy," as all those who have known him over the years, declare.

'AT YOUR SERVICE'—Mrs. Bernard Conroy (right) holds open door of waiting car for Mrs. Arthur Fay and Cynthia Schall. As

'What's The Gimmick?'

MARY NICOL JONES

"Well, lady, if you don't get paid what is the gimmick?" The tough little kid, butch haircut, jeans low on the hips, and a wise look that belied his 10 years, eyed the woman behind the wheel of an Imperial. This was her day on motor corps duty for Catholic Social Service of Marin, she was driving the boy to the doctor.

The "gimmick" for the 40 or so women who form the CSS motor Corps is the satisfaction of seeing the cynical look wiped off the faces of tough little kids, or of tired old people, because they have learned that some people care enough about them to give themselves.

Who uses Social Service motor corps? Just about anyone who needs it and is a resident of Marin County.

LIKE THE FIVE teen-agers from St. Vincent's School, who were driven to the dentist regularly by a volunteer with a convertible.

She thought the kids were fun, and always had her top down when she drove them. But she got a lump in her throat the day one redhaired freckle-face said, "Hey lady, look, everyone is staring at us; they think we all belong to you."

Or the woman who has an almost certainly incurable disease and goes to San Francisco for X-ray treatments. She seems to take her suffering in stride, but worries instead about how her illness will affect her 23-year-old daughter and the girl's chances for marriage.

There is one home where the motor corps driver baby-sits for a mother of five so that she can visit her husband who is in a TB sanatorium.

THINGS GET exciting sometimes—like when a new driver is transporting a bunch of kids and they "direct" her the long, long way, till she wises up, that is.

A petite woman tells a story of her first assignment. She was to take a mentally defective for his visit to the psychiatrist. Being frightened, she took along her Dalmatian for protection—protection she discovered, against a small Mexican boy who immediately made friends with the dog and sang him gay native songs all the way to the doctor's. On the way back he grew confidential.

"I just can't understand all those numbers, but I try, honest!"

"The Good Lord just didn't mean that kid for mathematics" the woman commented, ashamed that she had been frightened.

One young mother, stricken with cancer, is taken to the city every morning for treatments. The motor corps volunteer, has a dual role—that of driver and comforter.

The motor corps is of great value in cases where, for some reason or another, a person needs dependable transportation for a period of time.

CASES ARE referred to the social service motor corps by the Sisters of Social Service. Many people confuse the two organizations or think they are all one thing.

The sisters, whose habit is a good looking grey tailored dress, with hat and coat for street wear, are members of an order whose motherhouse is in Los Angeles. Although they are of invaluable service to Catholic Social Service, they are an organization apart—but that's a story for some other time.

Suffice it to say that Sister Alfreda (the superior) is executive secretary of Catholic Social Service of Marin, and is the one who would answer the phone to anyone calling CSS with a transportation problem.

NATURE NOTES

Director, Junior Museum of Marin

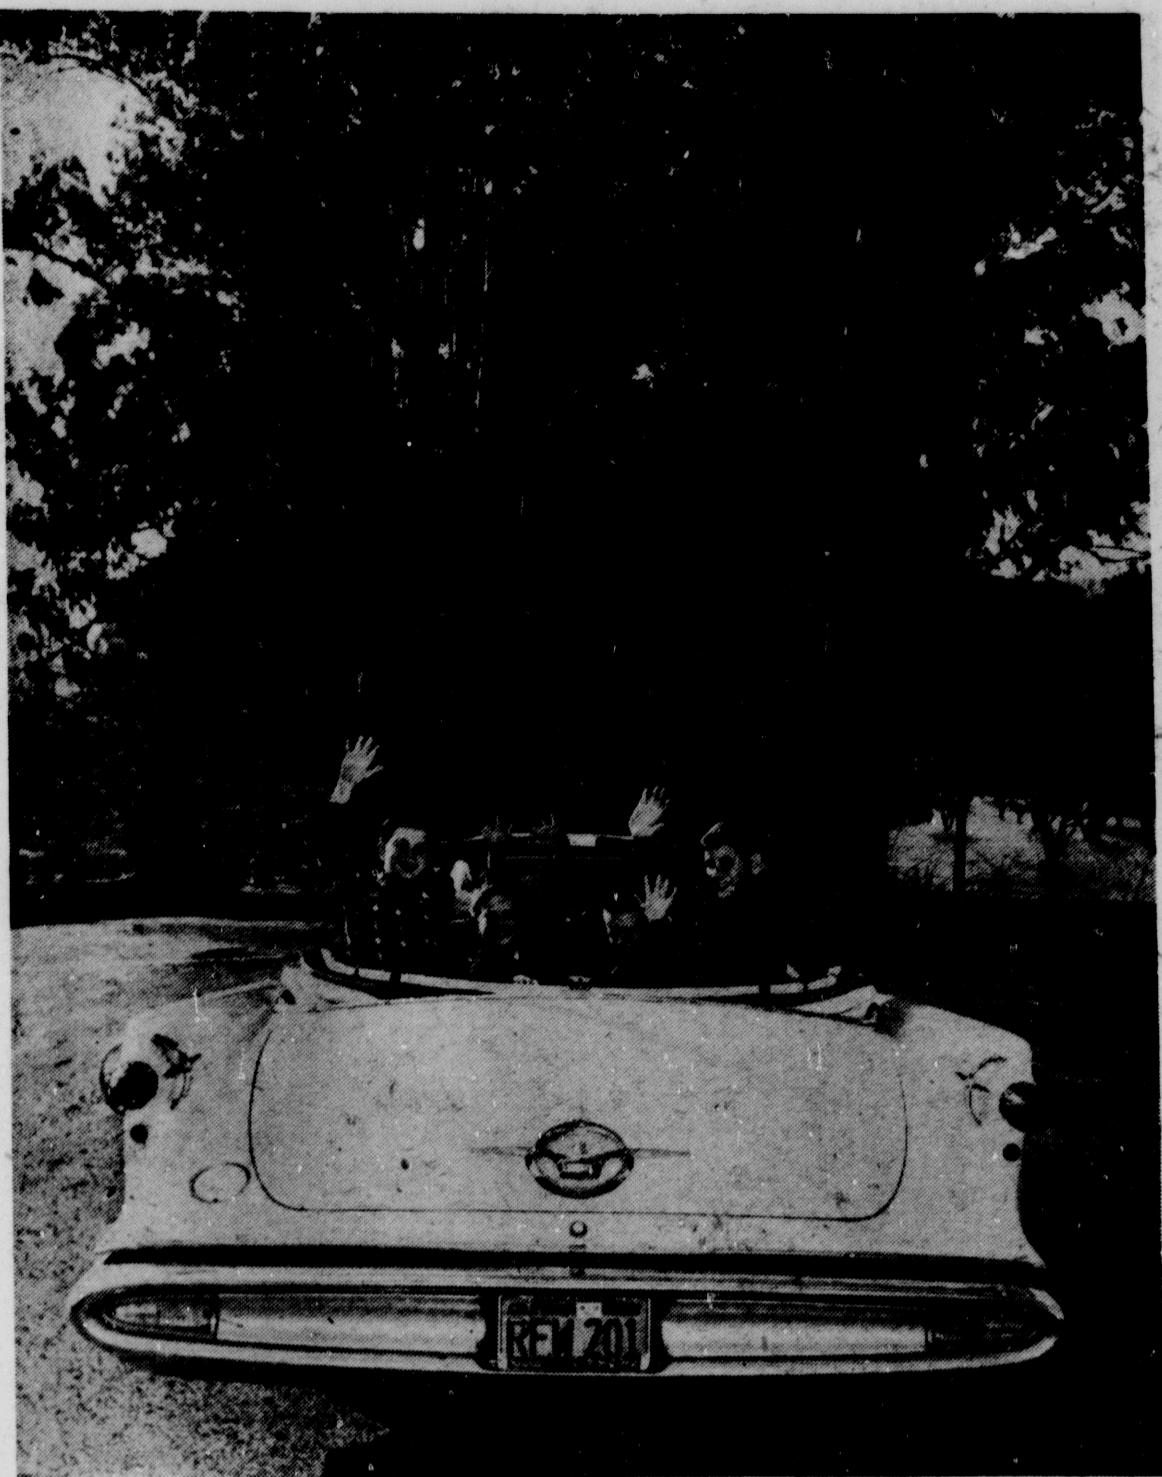

California Olive—No, Not Fruit, But Resident Of Bolinas Beach

The mollusks, like most other animals, have preferred areas where they live because the features necessary for their way of life are present. Marine snails need more than just salt water to survive and flourish, just as a trout needs more than just any fresh water to live and reproduce.

The observer or collector of shells has to go to a variety of marine habitats in order to see or collect the many different kinds of shells found along the shores of Marin. Not only is it important to recognize the differences between the outer coast and the bay and high and low tides, but also such features as whether the bottom is rocky, sandy or muddy, whether the shore is protected from heavy waves and high winds, whether there are fresh water streams emptying into the area in quantity or even the presence of a drain or sewage outlet in the vicinity. All of these features will have an influence on the kinds of life living within any given area.

The purple olive snail is a common gastropod when sought in the right locations but one that would be impossible to find in many areas of the coast. Visitors to the beaches at Bolinas often find numbers of the shells of the purple olive washed up on the beach and they could see the living animal along those same beaches at low tide if they would watch for the trails left by this snail in the sand. The purple snail has a shell about 1 inch long that is shaped something like a fat cigar. It ranges in color from nearly white to dark purplish brown with purple lines or marks along the sutures.

Purple olives seem to prefer shallow water and clean sandy bottoms along protected beach and tidepool areas. In areas like this they leave trails in the sand as they burrow along just under the surface. Sometimes the shell is slightly above the surface of the sand and seems to glide along without any apparent means of locomotion. Actually the body or foot of the snail is just below the surface sliding slowly through the sand as it searches out the microscopic food particles upon which it feeds.

STEREO and HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

Seventh of a weekly series of articles which will cover all phases of STEREO-PHONIC SOUND for the home.

Stereophonic Sound. The newest scientific achievement that brings a most rewarding field of entertainment right into your very home. Stereo is different. It spreads the entire orchestra across one wall of your home.

Stereo is derived from the Greek word meaning solid, a three-dimensional unit having height, width, and depth. When listening to a monaural Hi-Fi system, all of the orchestra sound is coming from the small space occupied by the loudspeaker opening. The sound has volume and frequency response; however, all instruments seem to be piled up in the one spot. When listening to a Stereo system, you hear volume and frequency response, but you also hear direction and depth. The orchestra comes alive. It is spread across the room. The sounds of the individual instruments come from different directions and from different depths; they are on the left, the right, the middle; they are close up, they are far back.

The Stereo effect depends on our senses for depth, just as our vision depends on our senses for visual depth. A newspaper picture has height and width but no depth. Three dimensional films, when viewed through special glasses give you depth. Stereo Sound, when heard on the special equipment that has made this triumph possible, gives you the direction and depth almost as if you were at the actual live performance.

How is the Stereo effect produced? In general, the left ear hears sounds originating on the left louder than the sounds originating on the right. The right ear hears the sounds originating on the right louder. Sounds originating in the center or directly in front of the listener arrive at both ears with the same volume. When the brain receives these sounds it enables the listener to recognize the direction from which the sounds came.

Briefly, a stereophonic system is one that is capable of playing back two completely independent sound tracks. Basically, this requires two Hi-Fi systems that are properly coupled together.

As we proceed further with our explanation of Stereo, we will begin our educational demonstration of Stereo Sound. One of our demonstrations will include an actual recording of Stereo Sound and an immediate playback of the material you witnessed being recorded. So that we can prepare for these programs, drop us a card and let us know if you plan to attend.

USC Singers Of Madrigals To Perform

The Dominican College of San Rafael will present the University of Southern California Madrigal Singers in concert at 8 p.m. on Tuesday in Angelico Hall, at 8 o'clock.

The Madrigal Singers, under the direction of Dr. Charles C. Hirt, is a unique chamber group which has received national recognition both for its choral achievements and for the manner in which it brings to life the spirit of rarely heard choral chamber music from the Renaissance to the present time.

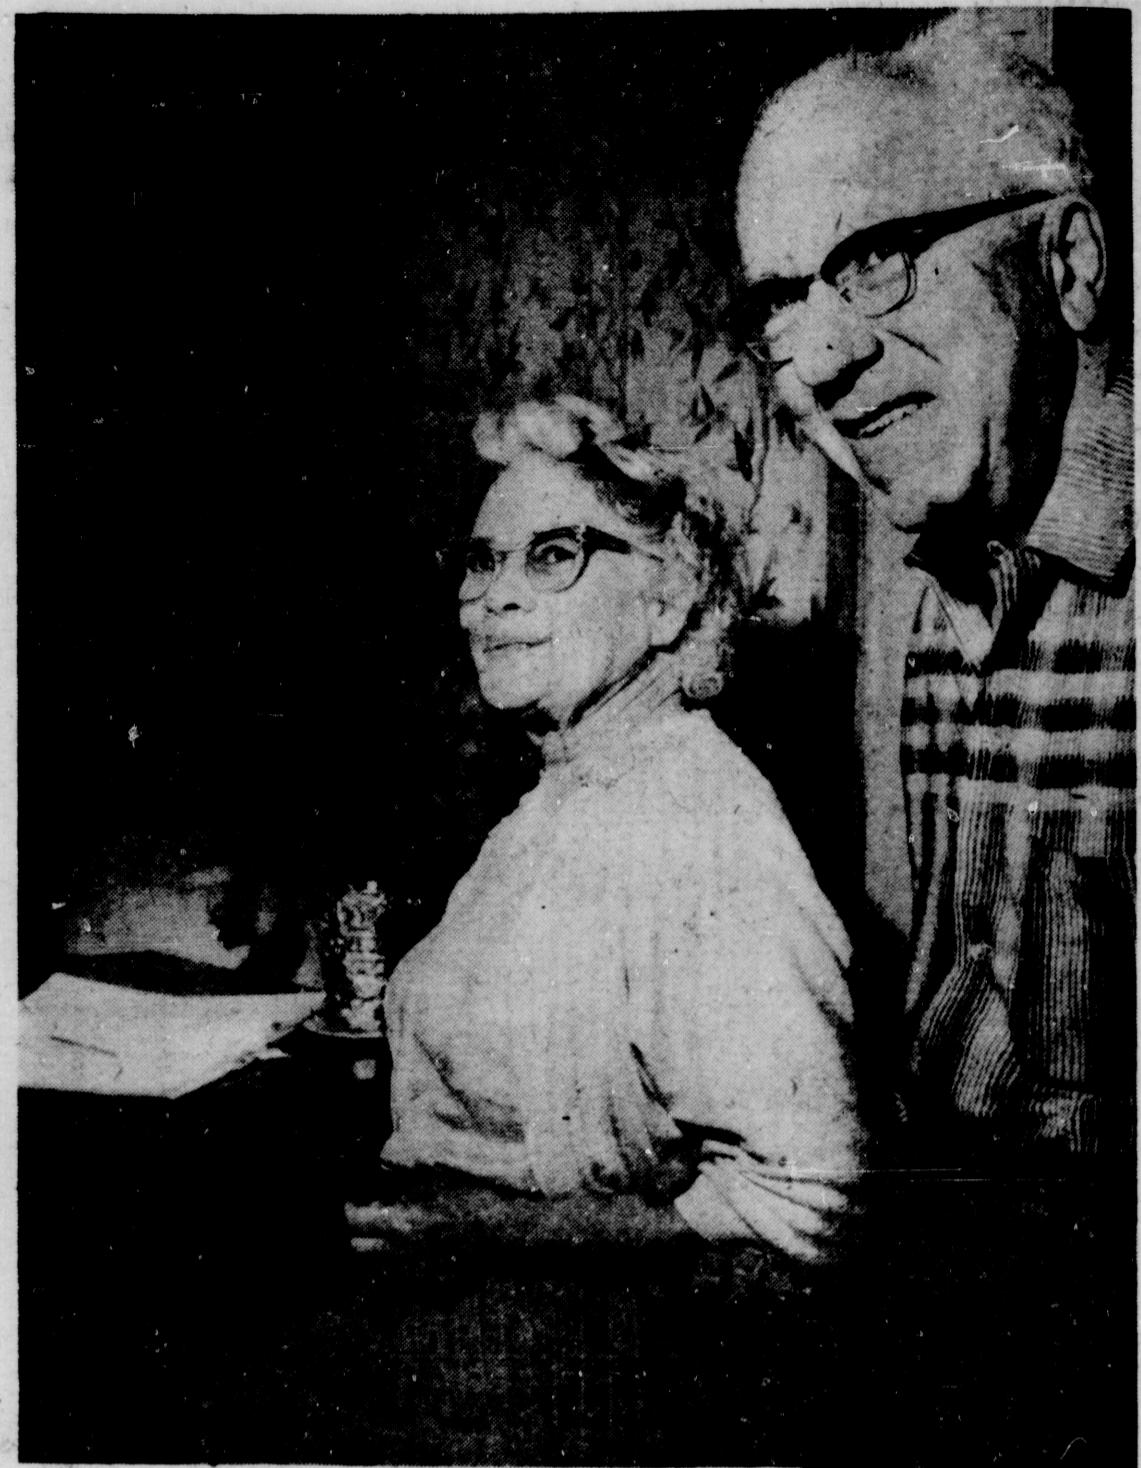

The 16th century saw the flowering of an informal kind of music, unsurpassed in beauty and grace, and designed to bring pleasure to the singer as well as to the listener. The usually merry, sometimes melancholy, songs of the madrigals were first heard in the banquet halls of great estates when family and friends sang by candlelight around the table after dinner.

The Southern California Madrigal Singers recreate such a scene, singing usually in the original language of the composer. They are noted for the perfection of their tonal quality, musical expression, and poetic understanding.

THE DIRECTOR, Dr. Charles C. Hirt, is one of the most brilliant and highly respected people in the field of choral work today. In recognition of this leadership among the musicians in America, Dr. Hirt was chosen this year to conduct the All-Conference Chorus at the National Biennial Convention of the MENC in Los Angeles.

The concert is open to the public.

NEWLYWEDS — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Stephenson, both widowed, found a new future in their sixties as a result of their

Romance For Seniors

Ralph Stephenson Was 'Fed Up'
When Senior Center Changed Things

There is a sly twinkle in the eye of Ralph E. Stephenson as he looks at Kay, his vivacious bride of three months. Sitting in the side parlor of an old-fashioned house at 1825 on Fourth street in San Rafael, they tell how they met a few months ago and decided to get married.

What makes these newlyweds a bit unusual is their ages. He is 62, she is 65.

If it hadn't been for this big old house and the fellowship it represents, it just wouldn't have happened. A very lonely Ralph Stephenson was just about to pack up his belongings, say goodbye to his daughter's family and go back to Illinois.

"I WAS FED up. I was just about to go back East," Stephenson recalls.

Then the Senior Citizens' Center an opening was announced and Stephenson decided to make one more try. A widower, he had come to Marin after the death of his wife during their Florida retirement.

He had come to Marin to live near his daughter, Mrs. Paul Sink of Corte Madera, having lost his wife the year before in Florida. He was just about to pack his belongings and head back to Illinois where he had retired as foreman for the Edison Co. At least there he had some friends.

THE DAY the Senior Citizens' Center opened, Stephenson dropped in. He was warmly welcomed by executive director John Clahan.

"John says I was the first one here after it opened up, I just wanted to make some friends."

Which he did. And one of them was a trim, white-haired widow named Kay Carleton. Widow of a Northwestern Pacific division engineer, she had been living with a daughter and son-in-law Neal of Loch Lomond. Besides attending the monthly Marin Senior Citizens' Association meetings at Isabel Cook School in San Anselmo, she had become recording secretary for Golden Star Rebecca Lodge in San Rafael.

THE OPENING of the center ripened many friendships among seniors.

"At the school meetings there are programs but it's still a meeting. You don't get acquainted the way you do here at the center."

The friendship between them ripened to courtship.

"Hard to decide to get married again? I don't know that it takes any more nerve to decide that than anything else important," observes Stephenson.

THEY USUALLY spend

Wednesday at the center, which is Kay's day as volunteer hostess, but the Stephensons are busy at home now. Ralph sold the little San Anselmo cottage in which he was living and bought a brand new house at 380 Oak Manor drive, Fairfax. Kay brought out of storage her old-fashioned four poster bedroom set. They're fixing it up as fast as they can.

On her Wednesday "center" days, she shares clean-up, sweeping, and hospitality duties with Ethel Bryce and Mabel Carr. They fix lunch and then spend the afternoon with the others who come to play cards and other games.

MRS. STEPHENSON is greatly concerned about other seniors. A kitchen conversation was the turning point for another Marin senior—Mabel Beckwith. The friendly invitation stopped her from going back home. She is aware of the number of older persons with no real reason for living.

"I watch them walk down the street. Very few are hurrying because they have nothing to hurry for."

She thinks that one way to make them feel welcome would be to walk up and hand them a printed invitation, to come to the center. Once they come, she says, they will come back.

AUSTIN CREEK TRAGEDY — From a painting made of the 1894 accident, now owned by a Mrs. Wiley

Tragedy Strikes NPC

Loss Of Eight Lives With Engine 9 Overshadows Improvements On NPC

As a starting policy, the new regime, headed by J. B. Stetson, made a gesture of goodwill toward their patrons. An announcement came that all coal-burning locomotives would be converted to wood-burners to aid wood choppers along the line. Also, a late boat would leave San Francisco every night of the week instead of just Thursday night as had been the practice in the past. Also an early ferry would accommodate Sausalito commuters by landing them in the City before 7:30 each week-day morning.

However, fare rates were said to be as low as they possibly could be. A month's commutation ticket between Sausalito and San Francisco sold for $3, the same as between Oakland and the metropolis. Commuters from San Rafael paid but $4 for a book of commutation tickets.

Sufficient money now became available to commence work on additions and replacements delayed for years through lack of funds. In November 1893, N.P.C. ordered a double-end ferry boat from the Fulton Iron Works, to alternate with the over-worked "San Rafael" and to replace the worn-out "Tamalpais" built in 1857 as the "Petaluma."

THE NEWLY authorized ferry steamer received the name "Sausalito," spelled the modern way, which would distinguish this boat from the original "Saucelito" that burned at Point San Quentin wharf in 1884.

Blue-prints called for nothing sensational or spectacular, as envisioned by the impractical Graves — only a good serviceable boat, with the reliable beam engine, and paddle-wheels to produce an every-day speed of about 14 miles per hour.

Robert Spears, superintendent of the iron works, designed this vessel as a combination passenger and freight carrier, with tracks running full length on both port and starboard side of the main deck to allow the ferrying of railway cars. He introduced electric lighting as another innovation on NPC ferry boats.

Construction work began on a new pier and ferry slip at Sausalito to accommodate the company's new steamer when put in service.

The old single-enders tied up broadside to the wharf.

Heretofore, passengers at the Sausalito terminal had to transfer out in the open from the cars to the boat and vice versa. Women with children or carrying luggage, found this a disagreeable experience during stormy weather.

The company contracted in February, 1894, for construction of a train shed 324 feet long by 80 feet wide — wide enough to admit four trains abreast.

AFTER COMPLETION of this structure all transferring was done under shelter, company offices, a telegraph office and passenger waiting room were all accommodated under the same roof.

Although the country in general was feeling hard times due to the economic depression, the outlook for the NPC appeared very bright. San Francisco was preparing for its Mid-Winter Fair and using a lot of lumber. The fair would bring thousands of visitors and sightseers and the railroad looked forward to its share of business from the expected influx.

However, the new year brought its score of misfortunes, too.

THE WORST TRAGEDY in NPC's history, the most sensational and the longest remembered, occurred at Cazadero on Sunday evening, Jan. 14, 1894.

Days of pouring rain brought water cascading down mountain slopes in relentless fury. Local residents claimed they never saw Austin Creek so turbulent, not even during the unparalleled storms four years before. Logs left along the banks by wood choppers were picked up by the flood and swept down stream, to batter and pound each successive railroad bridge. Brush caught on the piers and piled up to further weaken these structures, while muddy water boiled up over the cap beams.

The Saturday night train usually laid over at Cazadero until five o'clock Monday morning, the scheduled time to start the return trip to Sausalito.

SHORTLY BEFORE eight o'clock that Sunday evening the train crew and several villagers climbed aboard locomotive No. 9 and started out on what was said to be an inspection tour.

More likely the boys planned on a jamboree at Duncan's to enliven an otherwise extremely dull Sunday.

They stopped at the first crossing of Austin Creek, about a half mile below Cazadero. Rails across the stream were supported on three piers about 15 feet high, each constructed with three piles driven into the creek bed. Conductor William Brown hopped off the engine and cautiously walked across the bridge in the glare of the engine's headlight to see what condition the bridge was in.

HE CARRIED a lantern on his arm for signaling. Evidently he thought things were all right and gave his companions the sign to come ahead, although this was denied later. The locomotive got half way across when the middle pier collapsed and No. 9 plunged into the swirling stream amid a tangled mass of released brush and driftwood, carrying seven men to their deaths. Left alone on the opposite bank, Brown ran up and down frantically, praying that he might find some of his friends still alive. After his lantern went out he became lost in the rain and forest night and did not reach Duncans Mills until well after daylight.

Then a report of the accident went out over the telegraph wires.

MEANWHILE, Cazadero knew nothing until morning of the night's tragedy. When no one appeared to take out the early train inquiries grew into fears which soon led to the discovery of the broken bridge. The locomotive could not be seen for it had disappeared beneath the flood waters.

Eight men had vanished with the engine and no one knew at that time how many had perished. Those missing were William Brown, conductor; Arthur Briggs, engineer; Tom Collister, fireman; William Brommer (or Bremmer) hotel clerk; Thomas Gould, postmaster; John Rice, engine wiper; Joseph Sabine, station agent; and Frank Hart, of San Francisco, who had been staying with his mother at her Cazadero Hotel.

Search for bodies commenced and those of Brommer and Collister were found during the day caught in brush along the banks.

Mrs. Hart haunted the vicinity of the bridge and spurred every man on to renewed effort.

Are you style-conscious? HOY'S customers are, and MAGNAVOX knows this fact. MAGNAVOX STEREO, Hi-Fi, TV, and combination instruments are manufactured in many styles and periods of furniture.

What is your preference? Many readers of this column have requested we do a series on MAGNAVOX stylings—combined with information on antique furniture and early cabinetmakers . . . These readers want their MAGNAVOX to be an important addition to their way of life—and they think the more informed they are about furniture — antiques and reproductions — the better pieces they will select to compliment their MAGNAVOX STEREOFONIC record player; or choose the MAGNAVOX best suited for their present furniture — antique or contemporary. MAGNAVOX STEREOFONICS may be admired, heard and bought at HOY'S. The price range is from $149.90 to $1,495.50 — comparable to the prices of good furniture. MAGNAVOX sets have optional legs.

Can you distinguish the characteristics of early English cabinetmakers? Note the legs of your furniture—and the legs of MAGNAVOX instruments at HOY'S stores. George Hepplewhite used mahogany, and inlays for decoration: 1725-1815 period. Thomas Sheraton favored straight, reeded legs; and Chippendale cabriole legs have carved ball and claw feet . . . 4,000 Quarts Of Milk A Day

'You Have To Change With The Times
Or You Just Don't Stay In Business'

Four thousand quarts of milk a day. That is the output of just one Marin dairy farm—that of Waldo Giacomini of Pt. Reyes.

Last year, the 21 shippers at Pt. Reyes produced 3,259,000 pounds of milk, or 1½ million quarts.

Giacomini has been in dairying since the age of 10, when he would milk 10 or 12 cows before and after school.

He has seen a lot of changes, particularly in the last few years. Modernization is a constant process.

"You have to change with the times. If you don't keep up with the modern way of doing business, you just don't stay in business," he observes.

ONE OF THE biggest changes has come in the past five years. The 10-gallon milk can has been replaced by the farm tank. Milk passes from udder to milking machine to farm tank to tank truck to bottling plant, without being touched either by human hands or by air.

"Now, if you don't have a tank, they won't pick it up," says Giacomini, a member of the Challenge association.

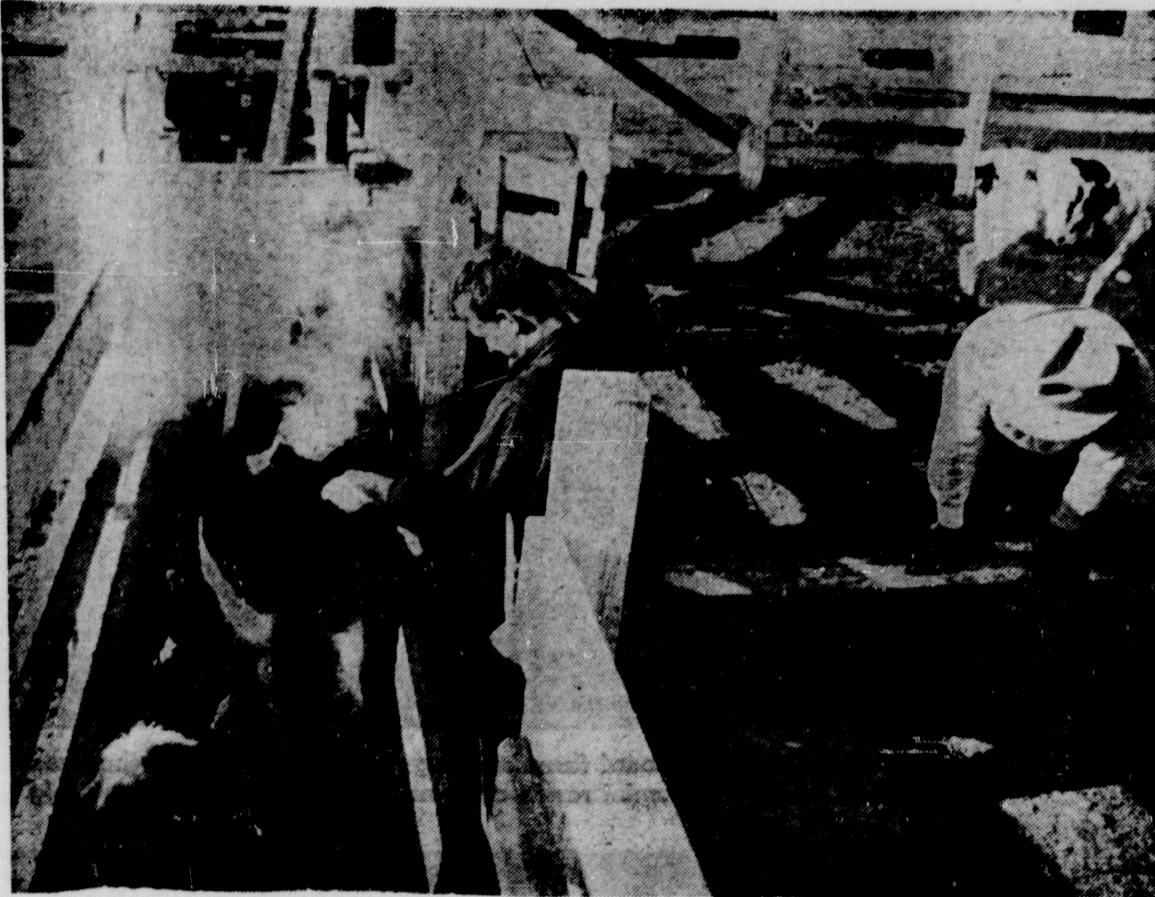

The milk is kept at 36 degrees during the whole process, and equipment is kept hygienically clean to keep down bacteria. Once a month, the state inspector comes around to check bacteria and butterfat content. If the bacteria count goes up to a certain amount, the dairy association won't receive it. If the butterfat goes down, so does the price per pound.

This is only one end of the producer's problems. On the others are the cattle themselves, their offspring, love life, branding, pasturage, and weather.

WHILE THE last-named has a big effect on the operation, Giacomini discusses it as matter-of-factly as if bad weather was usual. When the rains are late and pasture doesn't grow, fodder has to be bought, even for the half of the herd which is not being milked.

"This year, everybody's feeding all his dry stock," Giacomini comments.

Last year, it was too much rain. Giacomini was harder hit than most, because his reclaimed 600 acres was almost all under water. All the stock was crowded in corrals on his "dry" 15 acres.

In that case, his dry stock was better off, since it was pastured on rented land.

BRANDING is as much a part of a dairy as of a beef cattle operation. Giacomini's "Rafter W" is registered with the state as a safeguard against thievery. A rancher has a choice of brands, provided someone else already does not have it.

The private lives of the cows themselves have been affected by progress as much as their product. Artificial insemination via the Sonoma-Marin Breeders Assn. assures that their offspring have the very best bull blood in the United States. But father has never left his home back East.

Artificial insemination has made it possible "to build up dairy herds tremendously" since it started.

operation. A cow which gives only three gallons of milk per day may eat just as much as another which gives 10.

Quantity is not the only measure, however. Guernseys give more milk, in general, than Jerseys, but the butterfat content is not so high. Giacomini, like many others, has a mixed herd — about one-third Jerseys — to maintain an average butterfat content at market levels.

"It doesn't mean that one is better than the other. It just depends on what kind of cow you've got."

A cow's output is usually quoted in terms of pounds of butterfat per year. Average is 425 to 450 pounds.

• "You can't afford to keep a cow unless it produces 400 pounds of butterfat a year."

COWS DO NOT go on giving milk indefinitely. The usual period is 10 months, after which they are bred. Giacomini has about 200 milkers, with almost that many "dry."

Some of the non-milkers are young stock coming up to milking age. Others are pregnant for the dual purpose of producing new stock and more milk. Mortality rate is about 5 per cent per year.

Both Giacomini's sons are staying with farming. They have been in 4-H for many years. Richard, 18, helps with all phases of dairy ranching.

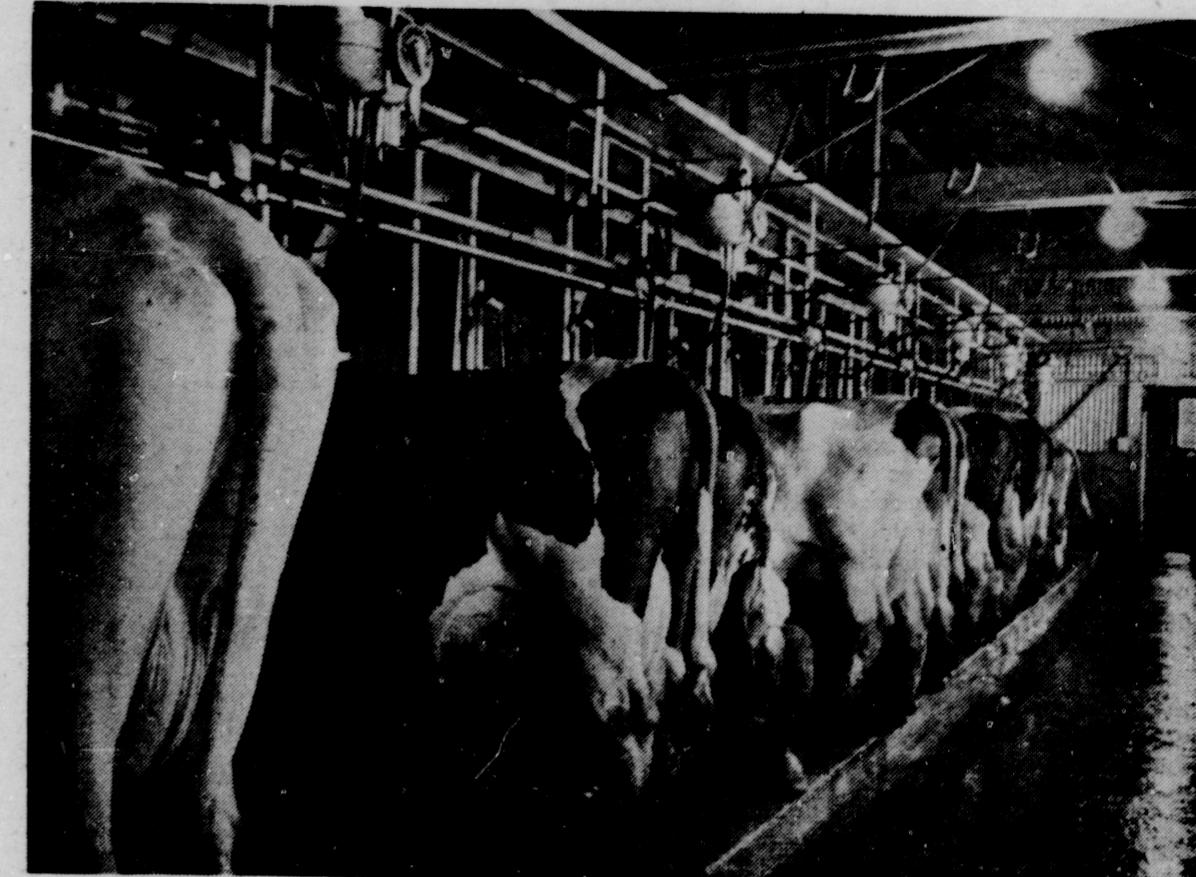

Bob, 21, graduated from Davis and is now a 4-H leader. Their dad is enthusiastic about 4-H influence on farm youth.

"When kids have competition, they seem to enjoy it more than when they just take it for granted."

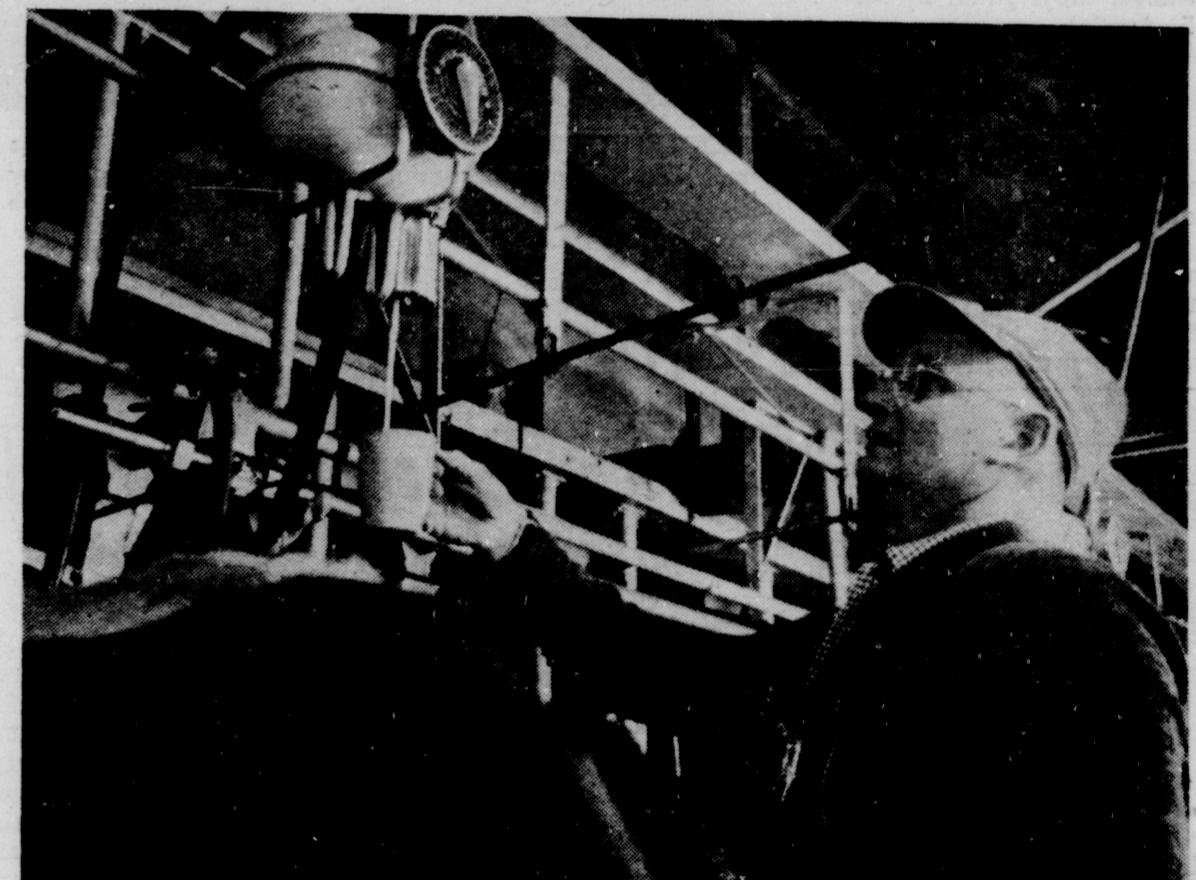

BY OWNING their own calves, the youngsters learn to take pride in keeping them clean, in raising good stock. They learn showmanship and how to handle animals.

"It's all right, but I'll take that free-lancing life a rancher has."

"You just produce the product. You don't have to put up with the public."

ABALONE (Haliotis sp.) — An Abalone clings to the rocks with a powerful muscle which forms the foot. At extreme low tides it may be pried off the rocks and the foot split, pounded, and made into delicious steaks. Abalone shells are conspicuous and handsome, showing beautiful, iridescent colors inside. In the past, tremendous quantities were taken for food, and one sees great mounds of shells along the Monterey coast. Now the open season is limited, and size and number of catch are restricted. Black, red, and green abalones are found, some as much as 9 inches in length. (From Out-of-Doors in Marin, copyrighted by M. F. Austin)

Shield Tank

With a pressure water system the tank should always be shielded from direct sunlight exposure. Too much heat can cause expansion of the tank as well as cause the cold-water faucet to emit warm water when turned on.

SCHOOL IN SESSION—Condemned to old maidhood, Miss Phoebe (at the piano) conducts a class in manners in her schoolroom. Pupils are (from left) Patricia Quigg, Debbie Dominican Troupers To Present James Barrie's 'Quality Street'

Sir James Matthew Barrie's play, "Quality Street," will be presented tomorrow night by the Troupers of Dominican College. The four-act comedy of manners, set in the early 1800's, is under the direction of Sister Mary Cyril, O.P., and will take place in the auditorium of Angelico Hall on the College campus in San Rafael. Curtain time is 8:15 p. m.

The plot of the comedy concerns the Misses Phoebe and Susan Throssel, the old maids of Quality Street. When Valentine Brown, Miss Phoebe's last hope for a husband, enlists in the Napoleonic wars, Phoebe and Susan are left to become old maid school teachers. Age is a touchy subject with Miss Phoebe, and 10 years later when Valentine returns, she is an "ancient" 30 years old. Valentine comments on her faded beauty and Miss Phoebe vows to become young again. She "lets down her ringlets," puts on her ball gown and so surprises everyone that she is not recognized.

She parades around Quality Street as her own niece, Miss Livvy, and charms all the young men of the town. Before long her masquerade gets a bit out of hand. All ends well however, for Valentine comes to her aid and Livvy safely becomes Miss Phoebe again.

In lead roles as Phoebe and Valentine are Susan Schneider of Spokane, Wash., and Kenneth Franceschi of San Rafael. Susan is played by Lee Coulter of San Anselmo. The town's three busybodes are Mary O'Donnell, Carol Ingemanson and Gayle Charles. Cathy Silcock of Kentfield portrays Patty the maid.

Others in the cast are Tony Fagundes, Odile Martinet, Jane O'Farrell, Barbara Car-

Bay Area Ballet Will Perform Original Works In San Rafael

Premieres of two new ballets will be presented in the forthcoming series of concerts by the Bay Area Ballet. The Marin concert will be at 2:30 p.m., March 8 at Dominican College in San Rafael.

"Rappaccini's Daughter," a dramatic ballet based on the story by Nathaniel Hawthorne was choreographed for the company by Ruth Sandholm, director of the ballet department of the Boston Conservatory of Music. Miss Sandholm spent several weeks in San Francisco creating the ballet for the company.

The title role will be danced by Sally Hobson of San Rafael, with Russell Sage cast in the role of Giovanni, Jane Bowen-Ericson as the Poison Flower and Harold Garton as Rappaccini. The ballet is under the direction of William Booth, music is by Sibelius, costumes by Hildur Mahl and decor by Calvin Thomas.

In line with the announced policy of the company to give opportunities to young choreographers in the area, the other premiere will be the work of Michael Smuin of San Francisco Ballet. It is an abstract ballet to music of Vivaldi. Miss Hobson is again featured in this number with Richard Faulkner.

Completing the program will be two of last season's most successful offerings:

"Entr'acte," choreographed by Garton, and Vern Norden's "Jeux D'Enfants."

Other Marin County dancers appearing on the program are Annette Bachich, Linda Lepley and Kathleen Weiss. Leona Norman of San Rafael is one of the directors of the company.

The Marin concert will be preceded by a concert at Hayward High School and followed by one in San Francisco at Veterans' Auditorium, March 9.

Tickets are $2 and may be reserved by calling Glenwood 3-6705. Tickets for the San Francisco performance available at Sherman Clay. For East Bay call BRowning 6-0514

Three Grades

There are three grades of cedar shingles. No. 1 is the best and used for extra-fine installations. No. 2, generally used for sidewalls, has no blemishes on any parts of the exposed shingles. No. 3 is considered satisfactory for garages and small buildings but often is used for sidewalls on larger buildings where economy is the prime consideration.

Keep Paper Tight

In using an electric sander, it is important that the abrasive paper be stretched tightly across the pad. This is especially vital in using an orbital sander, in which the pad moves back and forth in a slight orbit.

TOPIC FOR DISCUSSION — This abstract painting will be the center of his discussion of abstract painting tomorrow at the preview of the Marin Society of Artists' Abstract Show. The speaker, Victor de Wilde of San Rafael, is also the artist who painted the picture. He will speak at 3 p. m.

MARIN SOCIETY OF ARTISTS

Abstract Art Is Neither New Nor Rebellious . . . De Wilde

By EVA DIAMOND

The Abstract Show of the Marin Society of Artists opens tomorrow at the Frances Young Gallery, Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Feature of the opening, will be a lecture and demonstration at three o'clock by Victor De Wilde, San Rafael painter, whose works are well known and highly regarded locally and elsewhere.

Using one of his own paintings as basis for discussion, DeWilde will analyze qualities of composition, line, structural pattern, texture, tension and color. Establishing these qualities as separate entities, he plans to show how in a good painting each should be strong enough to stand alone.

DeWilde states that his is neither a new nor rebellious concept. The so-called "structural" way of looking at paintings has been used since the Renaissance. However, he does believe that review and further understanding of these basic elements may be of great assistance to the artist as he works as well as to the viewer as he tries to understand what makes a painting good.

His own paintings are abstracts, often with a feeling of fantasy. He began his art education in Europe. Later he studied at the College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland and elsewhere. He has exhibited extensively since 1935, often winning prizes.

The Abstract Show will run through March 22. Frank Milner and Joan Foster, co-chairmen of the exhibition, announce daily gallery hours from 2 to 4 p. m.

As weather warms up, best keep an eye to roses. Aphids just love that tender new growth and will make a mess of it in short order. Keep the spray gun handy and fire away at the first sign of trouble. Spraying isn't the chore it used to be with the modern spray equipment which is now available. In the meantime, ask a member of the California Association of Nurserymen to recommend a regular spray program for roses — then follow it religiously.

Eye On The Planets

You have to keep an eye on planetary time tables if you're writing a book about the moon these days — especially if that book is for beginning readers and you're as fussy about your facts as Mae and Ira Freeman.

They're the authors of "You Will Go to the Moon," the Spring 1959 addition to the Random House Beginner Books.

Dr. Ira Freeman is not only Professor of Physics at Rutgers University, but has written a number of college textbooks on that abstruse subject. With his wife, Mae Freeman, he has authored many books about science for youngsters, including "Fun With Astronomy" and "Fun With Chemistry." "You Will Go to the Moon" is the seventh Beginner Book in the series that began with Dr. Seuss' "The Cat in the Hat."

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

- ✓ It's not too late to minimize the ragged look of bulb foliage after bloom. Set out pansies and violas in front of and among the bulbs. Also, double the foliage over and tie it with cord to tidy a bulb bed after bloom is gone.
- ✓ Check nurseries for Saucer and Star Magnolias in bloom. Also for Camellias and Azaleas. Bloom time is the best time to buy these.
- ✓ Lawns will come to life any week now. A feeding at this time will get them off to a good start when they do.
- ✓ Be sure to plant bareroot roses as soon as you get them home. If there's to be any delay, bury the roots in moist soil and leave them until you do plant.

RESPITE FROM RAIN

Rainstorms Aside, It's Time To Think Of Outdoor Living

It may take a few turns of the calendar to find outdoor living weather, but February is none too soon to start thinking about the good life. At least in terms of gardening, it isn't.

February is an ideal time to start those indispensable aids to outdoor living—the plants in tubs. Come warmer weather and they'll be ready to answer your landscape problems on deck or terrace.

Some gardeners think there is something mysterious about growing plants in tubs. Actually, almost any plant you name can be grown this way for a time. And some are especially well adapted, staying happy for years on end despite the cramped condition of their roots.

AMONG THOSE that fit this class, the California Association of Nurserymen lists Camellia as one of the finest. Camellias tolerate cramped feet seemingly forever and, while they don't bloom in summer, their glossy foliage is most welcome.

Among conifers, the squat Mugho Pine is a favorite with landscape designers. And the normally tall Japanese Black Pine will stay happy and in bounds for several years under container culture.

Golden Bamboo has come into its own in this age of tub gardening. The unrelated Heavenly Bamboo, or Nandina, has a similar feathery grace and is also well suited. All the dwarf citrus are excellent in containers, not only for their foliage but for the ornamental effort of their fruit which is of excellent quality.

FOR COLOR through summer, Geraniums and Pelargoniums are ideal. Fuchsias are fine for shaded locations, and Marguerites are not to be overlooked whatever the conditions.

There are many, many more, as a check with your nurseryman will reveal. And there are tubs to fit them all. You have only to match the right plant with the right tub, which is our idea of a thoroughly pleasant pastime.

Green-Horn Or Green-Thumb Have Fun With African Violets

If you are looking for fun in gardening, you'll find it with African Violets. It makes no difference that you haven't gardened before or that you don't plan to take it up now. And if you have no space to garden that's all right too. African violets can be fun for anyone who has a roof over his head.

These little charmers have been indoor favorites for decades. They come in whites, pinks, lavenders and purples and many shades thereof. Both double and single blooms are available to brighten your home the year around.

"That's all fine and good," you say, "but I know a person who does everything and can't keep his African violets in bloom the year 'round."

TO BEGIN with, your African violet needs a certain amount of light each day. Too much deviation from the norm—one way or other—can result in no flowers. The aforementioned C.A.N. nurseryman suggests you grow them in an east window where they get approximately the daily candle power they need.

Secondly, an African violet has certain heat requirements. You can't expect continued bloom if night temperatures in your growing room drop too much below 60 degrees. This is easy to maintain with a thermostat control.

And thirdly, keep the African violet watered but not overwatered. Water gently from top or bottom, then let the surface soil dry to touch before watering again. Don't let water stand in dish under the pot.

Feeding is most often done once or twice a month with liquid fertilizer.

Do-It-Yourself

HANDY ANIMALS—Most sawhorses take up a lot of room when not in use. These don't, because they knock down for flat storage.

between do-it-yourself projects. It's all done with slots. Build a corral full of them from a free plan.

New Knock-Down Sawhorses Rarin' To Go, Easy To Corral

You'll never see this pair of horses in a western movie, but they can be the most valuable "animals" around the home workshop. They are knock-down sawhorses, designed with interlocking leg joints so they can be slipped apart easily and stacked out of the way.

Besides being used for routine woodworking tasks in the home workshop, the horses are also handy supports for picnic tables, table tennis panels, or patio serving wide enough so the pegboard will fit in securely.

Use a lighter wood or hardboard for the top and bottom pieces of the cabinet, cutting them so they will cover the edges of the side pieces to give the cabinet added stability. Fasten the top and bottom in place with screws.

A 2x2 center post then should be fitted inside and flush with the cabinet frame to provide door support. Cut two doors from hardboard and connect them to the frame, using short bolts and nuts to fasten the hinges to the hardboard.

The do-it-yourself planners point out that this type of easy-to-make cabinet can be mounted to the wall within handy reach of the work surface. Power saws, sanders, drills, and other electric tools as well as hand tools can be hung on mounting brackets fastened to the pegboard. And to keep hands of curious youngsters away from the tools, you can fasten a small lock to the doors if you wish.

Wall Cabinet Keeps Tools Clean, Handy

Storing power and hand tools often is a problem in the small home or farm workshop—but it's easily solved when there is available wall space above the workbench. Just build a wall-mounted cabinet in which to hang your tools away from the dust, shavings, and flying particles of the workshop.

Start with a piece of pegboard to serve as the back of the cabinet on which tools will be mounted. Sizes of the pegboard depends upon the available wall area and number of tools you have, point out homecraft specialists.

Choose boards 6 to 10 inches wide and an inch thick for the cabinet sides, cutting them with your portable electric saw to the same height as the pegboard back. Using your electric saw, route out grooves in these boards just tables. For a finished appearance, they could be stained, varnished or painted.

ALL THE PIECES can be cut from one $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch thick panel of fir plywood. The double crosspieces offer greater support than a conventional sawhorse. The space between the cross pieces simplifies hard-to-manage sawing jobs where support is needed close to the cut.

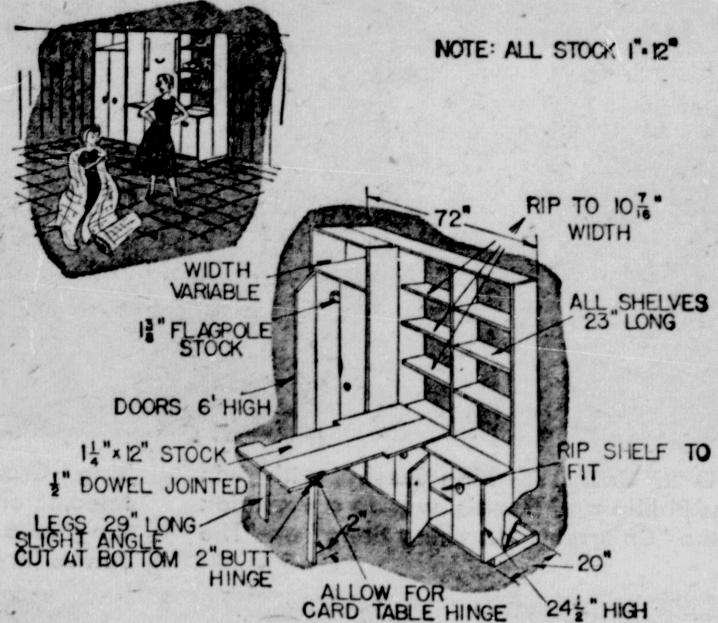

By following a free plan which is available, you can lay out the cutting diagram on a plywood panel. Exterior-type fir plywood, which is completely weatherproof, should be used. After sanding the cut edges of the plywood with coarse sandpaper, you can assemble the legs and crosspieces and drill holes for nails which serve as locking pins.

SOAP OR WAX the joints to insure an easier fit.

The free plan for the sawhorses may be obtained by writing Marin Magazine, c/o Independent-Journal, P. O. Box 330, San Rafael.

Into Sleek Storage Wall Sewing Center Folds Up

A built-in table and cabinet provides working space and storage for the home seamstress.

Height of the unit will depend upon the ceiling height, the adjustment being made in the shelf spacing.

The table top should be edge-glued and doweled to form a wide panel.

Use 2 by 4-inch lumber for the base and 1 by 12-inch for the rest of the unit. Assemble the base with 10-penny finishing nails, and the cabinet with 6-penny nails and glue. Use 2-inch butt hinges for the doors and fold-up table, and attach a card table hinge to each leg.

Make the unit away from the wall, slide it into place, and fasten it to the ceiling and end wall.

Ripe Strawberries

If you really want your strawberries to be ripe when you eat them, plant your own, advises the American Association of Nurserymen. Berries ripened on the plant are doubly delicious. It's the same with all bush fruits, raspberries, blackberries and blueberries.

CANINE TV ADDICT — Spotty, a 9-year-old crossbreed English setter and spaniel owned by Clark Samuel of Foxboro, Mass., barks at image of a duck moving across TV screen in the Samuel home. The dog has become a TV addict, according to Mr. Samuel. Animal pictures and westerns are his favorites. Zoologists' opinion on whether an animal can see objects plainly vary but there seems to be little doubt that this dog can. He will drop a boot or a bone at the sight of birds or animals moving on the screen.
